

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

EN

PROVISIONAL VERSION!

THIS TEXT IS SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

EN

EN

COMMISSION OF THE EUROPEAN COMMUNITIES

Brussels, xxx
COM(2003) yyy final

2003/aaaa (COD)

Proposal for a

DIRECTIVE OF THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND OF THE COUNCIL

on Services in the Internal Market

[SEC(2003)]

(presented by the Commission)

PROVISIONAL VERSION!

THIS TEXT IS SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

TABLE OF CONTENTS

SUMMARY	3
1. NECESSITY AND OBJECTIVE	5
2. BACKGROUND	6
3. MAIN FEATURES OF THE DIRECTIVE.....	8
a) A framework directive
b) A combination of regulation techniques
c) Coordination of the processes of modernisation
d) A dynamic approach
e) A framework facilitating access to services
4. PREPARATORY WORK.....	12
5. COHERENCE WITH OTHER COMMUNITY POLICIES	13
6. LEGAL ASPECTS	17
a) Legal basis and choice of instrument
b) Subsidiarity
c) Proportionality
7. SPECIFIC QUESTIONS	20
a) What activities are covered by the directive (Articles 2 and 4)?
b) Why should certain services or fields be excluded from the scope of the directive (Article 2)?
c) What is a "single point of contact" (Article 6)?
d) What is the difference between the requirements to be eliminated (Article 14) and the requirements to be evaluated (Article 15)?
e) What will the mutual evaluation procedure involve (Articles 9, 15, 30 and 40)?
f) How will the implementation of Articles 14, 15 and 16 of the Directive relate to the Commission's role as guardian of the Treaty, particularly where infringement procedures are concerned?
g) Are requirements that are not listed in Article 14 or Article 15 considered to be in conformity with the freedom of establishment provided for in Article 43 of the Treaty?
h) Why is there a section specifically devoted to the rights of recipients of services (Chapter II Section 2)?
i) Why is the question of the posting of third country nationals covered (Article 25)?
j) Why does the country of origin principle not apply to certain matters or activities (Article 17)?

SUMMARY

1. This proposal for a directive is part of the process of economic reform launched by the Lisbon European Council with a view to making the EU the most competitive and dynamic knowledge-based economy in the world by 2010. Achieving this goal means that the establishment of a genuine Internal Market in services is indispensable. It has not hitherto been possible to exploit the considerable potential for economic growth and job-creation afforded by the services sector because of the many obstacles¹ hampering the development of service activities in the internal market. This proposal forms part of the strategy adopted by the Commission to eliminate these obstacles and follows on from the Report on the State of the Internal Market for Services², which revealed their extent and significance.
2. The objective of the proposal for a Directive is to provide a legal framework that will eliminate the obstacles to the freedom of establishment for service providers and the free movement of services between the Member States, giving both the providers and recipients of services the legal certainty they need in order to exercise these two fundamental freedoms enshrined in the Treaty. The proposal covers a wide variety of economic service activities – with some exceptions, such as financial services – and applies only to service providers established in a Member State.
3. In order to eliminate the obstacles to the freedom of establishment, the proposal provides for:
 - administrative simplification measures, particularly involving the establishment of "single points of contact", at which service providers can complete the administrative procedures relevant to their activities, and the obligation to make it possible to complete these procedures by electronic means;
 - certain principles which authorisation schemes applicable to service activities must respect, in particular relating to the conditions and procedures for the granting of an authorisation;
 - the prohibition of certain particularly restrictive legal requirements that may still be in force in certain Member States;
 - the obligation to assess the compatibility of certain other legal requirements with the conditions laid down in the Directive, particularly as regards proportionality.
4. In order to eliminate the obstacles to the free movement of services, the proposal provides for:
 - the application of the country of origin principle, according to which a service provider is subject only to the law of the country in which he is established and Member States may not restrict services from a provider

¹ "An Internal Market Strategy for Services", Communication from the Commission to the Council and the European Parliament, COM (2000) 888 final, 29.12.2000.

² Report from the Commission to the Council and the European Parliament on "The State of the Internal Market for Services", COM (2002) 441 final, 30.7.2002.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

established in another Member State. This principle is accompanied by derogations which are either general, or temporary or which may be applied on a case-by-case basis ;

- the right of recipients to use services from other Member States without being hindered by restrictive measures imposed by their country or by discriminatory behaviour on the part of public authorities or private operators. In the case of patients, the proposal clarifies the circumstances in which a Member State may make reimbursement of the cost of health care provided in another Member State subject to authorisation;
- a mechanism to provide assistance to recipients who use a service provided by an operator established in another Member State;
- in the case of posting of workers in the context of the provision of services, the allocation of tasks between the Member State of origin and the Member State of destination and the supervision procedures applicable.

5. With a view to establishing the mutual trust between Member States necessary for eliminating these obstacles, the proposal provides for:

- harmonisation of legislation in order to guarantee equivalent protection of the general interest on vital questions, such as consumer protection, particularly as regards the service provider's obligations concerning information, professional insurance, multidisciplinary activities, settlement of disputes, and exchange of information on the quality of the service provider;
- stronger mutual assistance between national authorities with a view to effective supervision of service activities on the basis of a clear distribution of roles between the Member States and obligations to cooperate;
- measures for promoting the quality of services, such as voluntary certification of activities, quality charters or cooperation between the chambers of commerce and of crafts;
- encouraging codes of conduct drawn up by interested parties at Community level on certain questions, including in particular commercial communications by the regulated professions.

6. With a view to taking full effect by 2010, the proposal is based on a dynamic approach involving phased implementation of some of its provisions, a commitment to additional harmonisation on certain specific matters (cash-in-transit services, gambling and judicial recovery of debts), the guarantee that it will evolve and that any need for new initiatives can be identified. Moreover, this proposal is without prejudice to any legislative or other Community initiatives in the field of consumer protection.

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM

1. NECESSITY AND OBJECTIVE

Services are omnipresent in today's economy, generating almost 70% of GNP and jobs and offering considerable potential for growth and job-creation. Realising this potential is at the heart of the process of economic reform launched by the Lisbon European Council and aimed at making the EU the most competitive and dynamic knowledge-based economy in the world by 2010. It has not so far been possible to exploit fully the growth potential of services because of the many obstacles hampering the development of services activities between the Member States.

In its Report on "The State of the Internal Market for Services"³ ("the report"), the Commission listed these obstacles and concluded that "a decade after the envisaged completion of the Internal Market, there is a huge gap between the vision of an integrated EU economy and the reality as experienced by European citizens and European service providers." These obstacles affect a wide range of services such as distributive trades, employment agencies, certification, laboratories, construction services, estate agencies, craft industries, tourism, the regulated professions etc., and SMEs, which are predominant in the services sector, are particularly hard-hit. SMEs are too often discouraged from exploiting the opportunities afforded by the Internal Market because they do not have the means to evaluate, and protect themselves against, the legal risks involved in cross-border activity or to cope with the administrative complexities. The report, and the impact assessment which relates to this proposal, show the economic impact of this dysfunction, emphasising that it amounts to a considerable drag on the EU economy and its potential for growth, competitiveness and job creation.

These obstacles to the development of service activities between Member States occur in particular in two types of situation:

- when a service provider from one Member State wishes to establish himself in another Member State in order to provide his services. (For example, he may be subject to over-burdensome authorisation schemes, excessive red tape, discriminatory requirements, an economic test etc.);
- when a service provider wishes to provide a service from his Member State of origin into another Member State, particularly by moving to the other Member State on a temporary basis. (For example, he may be subject to a legal obligation to establish himself in the other Member State, need to obtain an authorisation there, or be subject to the application of its rules on the conditions for the exercise of the activity in question or to disproportionate procedures in connection with the posting of workers).

³ COM (2002) 441 final, 30.7.2002.

Accordingly, the aim of this proposal for a Directive is to establish a legal framework to facilitate the exercise of freedom of establishment for service providers in the Member States and the free movement of services between Member States. It aims to eliminate certain legal obstacles to the achievement of a genuine Internal Market in services and to guarantee service providers and recipients the legal certainty they need in order to exercise these two fundamental freedoms enshrined in the Treaty in practice.

2. BACKGROUND

This proposal for a Directive forms part of a political process launched in 2000 by the European Council:

In March 2000, the Lisbon European Council adopted a programme of economic reform aimed at making the EU the most competitive and dynamic knowledge-based economy in the world by 2010. In this context, the EU Heads of State and Government invited the Commission and the Member States to devise a strategy aimed at eliminating the obstacles to the free movement of services⁴.

In December 2000, in response to the call launched at the Lisbon Summit, the Commission set out "An Internal Market Strategy for Services"⁵, which received the full support of the Member States⁶, the European Parliament⁷, the Economic and Social Committee⁸ and the Committee of the Regions⁹. The aim of this strategy is to enable services to move across national borders within the European Union just as easily as within a single Member State. Above all it is based on a horizontal approach across all economic sectors involving services and on a two-stage process, the first involving identification of the difficulties hampering the smooth functioning of the Internal Market in services, and the second involving the development of appropriate solutions to the problems identified, and in particular a horizontal legal instrument.

In July 2002, the Commission presented its report on "The State of the Internal Market for Services", which marked the completion of the first phase in the strategy and provided as exhaustive a list as possible of barriers that exist in the Internal Market for services. This report also analyses the common features of these barriers and makes an initial evaluation of their economic impact¹⁰.

⁴ Presidency Conclusions, Lisbon European Council, 24.3.2000, paragraph 17. The need to take action in these fields was also highlighted at the Stockholm and Barcelona Summits in 2001 and 2002.

⁵ "An Internal Market Strategy for Services" Communication from the Commission to the Council and the European Parliament. COM (2000) 888 final, 29.12.2000.

⁶ 2336th Council meeting on the Internal Market, Consumer Affairs and Tourism of 12 March 2001, 6926/01 (Presse 103) para. 17.

⁷ European Parliament Resolution on the Commission Communication "An Internal Market Strategy for Services" A5-0310/2001, 4.10.2001.

⁸ Opinion of the Economic and Social Committee on the Commission Communication "An Internal Market Strategy for Services" (additional opinion), CES 1472/2001 final, 28.11.2001.

⁹ Opinion of the Committee of the Regions on the Commission Communication "An Internal Market Strategy for Services", CDR 134/2001 final, 27.06.2001.

¹⁰ This report took up, in certain respects, in the case of services, the idea provided for in the former article 100b EC of an inventory of national measures.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

In November 2002, the conclusions of the Council on the Commission's report¹¹, acknowledged "that a decade after the envisaged completion of the Internal Market, considerable work still needs to be done in order to make the Internal Market for services a reality" and emphasised "that very high political priority should be given to the removal of both legislative and non-legislative barriers to services in the Internal Market, as part of the overall goal set by the Lisbon European Council to make the European Union the most dynamic and competitive economy in the world by 2010". The Council urged the Commission to accelerate work on the initiatives foreseen in the second stage of the strategy, and in particular on the legislative instrument.

In February 2003, the European Parliament also welcomed the Commission's report, emphasising that it *"insists that the Competitiveness Council reaffirm Member States' commitment to the country of origin and mutual recognition principles, as the essential basis for completing the Internal Market in goods and services"*¹² and also that it *"welcomes the proposals for a horizontal instrument to ensure free movement of services in the form of mutual recognition, with automatic recognition being encouraged as far as possible, administrative cooperation and, where strictly necessary, harmonisation"*¹³.

In March 2003, with the aim of reinforcing the economic dimension of the Lisbon strategy, the Spring European Council called for the strengthening of the horizontal role of the Competitiveness Council in order to increase competitiveness and growth in the framework of an integrated approach to competitiveness to be set out by the Commission. The establishment of a clear and balanced legal framework to facilitate the free movement of services in the Internal Market is one of the elements necessary for the success of the new integrated competitiveness strategy.

In May 2003, according to its *"Internal Market Strategy"*¹⁴, the Commission announced that "the Commission will make a proposal for a Directive on services in the Internal Market before the end of 2003. This Directive will establish a clear and balanced legal framework aiming to facilitate the conditions for establishment and cross-border service provision. It will be based on a mix of mutual recognition, administrative co-operation, harmonisation where strictly necessary and encouragement of European codes of conduct/professional rules".

¹¹ Conclusion on obstacles to the provision of services in the internal market at the 2462nd Council meeting on Competitiveness (Internal Market, Industry, Research), Brussels, 14 November 2002, 13839/02 (Presse 344).

¹² European Parliament Resolution of 13 February 2003 on the Communication from the Commission to the Council, the European Parliament, the Economic and Social Committee and the Committee of the Regions: 2002 Review of the Internal Market Strategy – Delivering the promise" (COM (2002) 171 - C5-0283/2002 - 2002/2143(COS)). A5-0026/2003; point 35.

¹³ Point 36.

¹⁴ "Internal Market Strategy - Priorities 2003-2006" Communication from the Commission to the Council, the European Parliament, the European Economic and Social Committee and the Committee of the Regions, COM (2003) 238 of 7.5.2003.

In October 2003, the European Council identified the Internal Market as a key area for improving the competitiveness of the European economy and thus creating conditions conducive to growth and employment. It "calls on the Commission to present any further proposals necessary to complete the internal market and to fully exploit its potential, to stimulate entrepreneurship and to create a true internal market in services, while having due regard to the need to safeguard the supply and trading of services of general interest"¹⁵.

3. MAIN FEATURES OF THE DIRECTIVE

a) A framework Directive

The Directive will establish a general legal framework applicable, subject to certain exceptions, to all economic activities involving services. This horizontal approach is justified by the fact that, as explained in the report¹⁶, the legal obstacles to the achievement of a genuine Internal Market in services are often common to a large number of different activities and have many features in common.

Since the proposal is for a framework Directive, it does not aim to lay down detailed rules or to harmonise all the rules in the Member States applicable to service activities. This would have led to over-regulation and a standardisation of the specific features of the national systems for regulating services. Instead, the proposal deals exclusively with questions that are vital for the smooth functioning of the Internal Market in services by giving priority to targeted harmonisation of specific points, to the imposition of obligations to achieve clear results without prejudging the legal techniques by which they will be brought about, and to the clarification of the respective roles of the Member State of origin and the Member State of destination of a service. The proposal also refers to Commission implementing measures on the way that certain provisions are applied.

While establishing a general legal framework, the proposal recognises the specific characteristics of each profession or field of activity. More particularly, it recognises the specific nature of the regulated professions and the particular role of self-regulation. For example, the proposal provides (Article 17) for a number of derogations from the country of origin principle that are directly linked to the specific characteristics of certain activities; it also contains specific provisions on certain activities such as professional insurance and guarantees (Article 27), commercial communications by the regulated professions (Article 29) or multidisciplinary activities (Article 30); finally, it relies also on alternative methods of regulation specific to certain activities, such as codes of conduct for the regulated professions (Article 39).

Moreover, this proposal is without prejudice to any legislative or other Community initiatives in the field of consumer protection.

¹⁵ Presidency Conclusions, Brussels European Council, 16-17.10.2003, para 16.

¹⁶ COM (2002) 441 op cit, part II.

b) A combination of regulatory techniques

The proposal for a Directive is based on a combination of techniques for regulating service activities, including in particular:

- the country of origin principle, according to which service providers are subject only to the law of the country in which they are established and Member States may not restrict services provided by operators established in another Member State. It therefore enables operators to provide services in one or more other Member States without being subject to those Member States' rules. This principle also means that the Member State of origin is responsible for the effective supervision of service providers established on its territory even if they provide services into other Member States;
- derogations from the country of origin principle, in particular in Article 17, necessary in order to take account of differences in the level of protection of the general interest in certain fields, the extent of Community-level harmonisation, the degree of administrative cooperation, or certain Community instruments. Some of these derogations will apply for a transitional period up to 2010, and are intended to allow time for additional harmonisation on certain specific questions. Finally, derogations on a case-by-case basis are possible, subject to certain substantive conditions and procedures;
- the establishment of obligations of mutual assistance between national authorities, which is vital for ensuring the high level of mutual trust between Member States on which the country of origin principle is based. In order to ensure that supervision is effective, the proposal provides for a high degree of administrative cooperation between authorities by organising the allocation of supervisory tasks, exchange of information and mutual assistance;
- targeted harmonisation to ensure protection of the general interest in certain essential fields where too wide a divergence in the level of protection, notably in the field of consumer protection, would undermine the mutual trust that is vital to the acceptance of the country of origin principle and could justify, in accordance with the case law of the Court of Justice, measures restricting freedom of movement. Harmonisation is also provided for as far as the simplification of administrative procedures and the elimination of certain types of requirement are concerned;
- alternative methods of regulation that are important for the regulation of service activities. The proposal fully recognises their role and encourages the parties concerned to draw up, at Community level, codes of conduct on particular issues.

c) Coordination of the processes of modernisation

The proposal for a Directive aims to coordinate, at Community level, the modernisation of national systems for regulating service activities with a view to eliminating the legal obstacles to the achievement of a genuine Internal Market in services. The report emphasises the resistance to modernisation of the various national legal frameworks and notes that "The fundamental principles of the Treaty, the importance attached to them by the Court, and the follow-up to the ambitious programmes of 1962 and 1985, have not always resulted in the adjustment of national legislation which might have been expected."¹⁷

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

Adapting legislation case-by-case and Member-State-by-Member-State following infringement procedures by the Commission, would be an inefficient way of responding to this need for modernisation, as it would be entirely reactive and would lack a shared political will to move towards a common objective.¹⁸ The adjustment of legislation by all the Member States according to common principles and a common timetable will instead make it possible to benefit on a European scale from the resulting economic growth, to avoid distortions of competition between Member States that make their adjustments at different rates, and to encourage improved mobilisation around this objective, also in terms of allocation of national and Community administrative resources.

In order to transpose the Directive, Member States must:

- simplify the administrative procedures and formalities to which service activities are subject (Sections 1 and 2 of Chapter II), particularly by means of single points of contact (Article 6), the use of electronic procedures (Article 8) and simplification of the authorisation procedures for access to and the exercise of service activities (Articles 10–13); it should be noted that the obligations to communicate information (Article 7) and to make available electronic procedures (Article 8) do not prevent Member States from maintaining other procedures and methods of communication in parallel;
- eliminate from their legislation a number of requirements listed in the Directive that hamper access to and the exercise of service activities (Articles 14, 21, 29);
- guarantee in their legislation the free movement of services from other Member States and consequently adapt any rules that would hamper such movement (Articles 16, 20, 23 and 25);
- evaluate the justification and proportionality of a number of requirements listed in the Directive which, where they exist in their regulations, may significantly restrict the development of service activities (Articles 9, 15 and 30). This evaluation should lead to the elimination of unjustified requirements and will be the subject of mutual evaluation that could conclude, where appropriate, that other Community-level initiatives are necessary.

d) A dynamic approach

Given the scale of the obstacles identified in the report, the task of establishing a genuine area with no internal borders for services will take time. The modernisation of certain rules applied by the Member States will require fundamental changes (for example, single points of contact and the use of electronic procedures), additional harmonisation specific to certain activities, and take due account of the development of Community integration in other fields. In order to avoid a static approach that tackles a single problem and leaves the others unresolved, the proposal for a ¹⁷ COM (2002) 441 op cit. part II, Section C 2.

¹⁸ See impact assessment, paragraph 6.3.2.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

Directive adopts a phased approach aimed at achieving a genuine Internal Market for services by 2010. The proposal therefore provides for:

- phased implementation of certain of its provisions (Articles 6–8)
- additional harmonisation on certain specific questions, i.e. cash-in-transit services, gambling, and recovery of debts by judicial means (Article 40(1)), which are the subject of temporary derogations from the principle of country of origin (Article 18). Moreover, the need for further harmonisation could be identified, in particular in the areas of consumer protection and cross-border contracts (Article 40(2)d);
- extension of the scope of application of the country of origin principle as rules come to be harmonised in certain fields (Articles 17 point 21 and 19(2))
- the possibility for the Commission to take implementing measures on the way that certain provisions will be put in place (Article 42)
- identification of the need for new initiatives, particularly through mutual evaluation (Article 40(2))

The dynamics of the proposal can be summarised as follows:

1 year after adoption (scheduled: 2005)	Deadline for transposition (scheduled: 2007)	Not later than 31 December 2008	1 January 2010	No specific deadlines; according to needs	As Community-level harmonisation progresses
Commission proposals for additional harmonisation (Article 40) on: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - cash-in-transit - gambling - judicial recovery of debts 	Elimination of prohibited requirements (Article 14) Elimination of restrictions to free movement (Chapter III) except in the case of transitional derogations (Article 18) or those referred to in Article 17 <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Harmonisation of authorisation schemes (Articles 10–13) - Harmonisation of the quality of services (Chapter IV) - Mutual assistance (Chapter V) Mutual evaluation: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - report by each MS on the evaluation of requirements in its own legal system (Articles 9, 15 and 30) - each MS reacts to the reports by the other MS within six months 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Single points of contact (Article 6) - Right to information (Article 7) - Procedures by electronic means (Article 8) Mutual evaluation: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - summary report by the Commission, accompanied where appropriate by proposals for additional initiatives (Article 41) 	End of transitional derogations from the principle of country of origin (Article 18(2)) for: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - cash-in-transit - gambling - judicial recovery of debts 	Implementing measures (comitology) (Article 42) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - procedures by electronic means - assistance for recipients - information on service providers and their services - professional insurance and guarantees, - mutual assistance - mutual evaluation. Identification of the need for new initiatives (Article 40(2)) as a result of: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - experience of derogations on a case-by-case basis - lack of codes of conduct. revision of the acquis in the area of consumer protection and the follow-up to the Commission Action Plan on contract law.	The scope of derogations from the country of origin principle as regards contracts concluded by consumers and derogations on a case-by-case basis (Article 19) is limited to the non-harmonised area.

e) A framework facilitating access to services

The report emphasised that the users of services, and in particular consumers, are, together with SMEs, the main victims of the lack of a genuine Internal Market in services: they generally cannot benefit from a wide variety of competitively priced services and thus the better quality of life that they might expect from an area without internal borders.

By creating the conditions and legal certainty necessary for the development of service activities between Member States, and in so doing extending the range of services available, the Directive will be of direct benefit to the recipients of services. It will also guarantee better quality in the services on offer by enabling at Community level an increase in the efficiency of the supervision of service activities. The proposal also:

- provides for the right of recipients to use the services of providers established in other Member States without being hampered or dissuaded by restrictive measures applied by their country of residence (Article 20) or discriminatory behaviour by public authorities or private operators (Article 21). For the recipients of health services, the proposal clarifies, in accordance with the case law of the Court of Justice, the circumstances in which a Member State may make assumption of the costs of health care provided in another Member State subject to prior authorisation;
- guarantees specific assistance for a recipient in his own Member State, in the form of information on legislation in the other Member States, the available means of redress, and associations or organisations offering practical assistance (Article 22);
- strengthens considerably the right of recipients to information on services so as to enable them to make fully-informed choices. At present, some service activities are already subject to transparency requirements under Community rules, but many others are not because of the lack of provisions that are applicable to all service activities (Articles 26, 27, 28, 30, 31 and 32);
- strengthens the protection of recipients by providing for requirements regarding the quality of service providers – particularly the obligation to take out professional insurance in the case of services involving a particular health, safety or financial risk for the recipient (Article 27) - the provisions on multidisciplinary activities (Article 30) and the settlement of disputes (Article 32).

4. PREPARATORY WORK

This proposal is the result of numerous analyses, surveys and consultations with the Member States, the European Parliament and other stakeholders that have taken place since the launching of the Internal Market Strategy for Services in December 2000 and which are described in the impact assessment. The Economic and Social Committee and the Committee of the Regions have also made substantial contributions to the Strategy.

5. COHERENCE WITH OTHER COMMUNITY POLICIES

An Internal Market in services will not be established by means of a legal instrument alone but will require accompanying measures. In legal terms, the proposal is consistent with other Community instruments: where a service activity is already covered by one or more Community instruments, the Directive and these instruments will apply cumulatively, the requirements of the one applying in addition to those of the others. Where there might have been questions of compatibility in connection with a given Article, the latter provides for derogations (in Article 17, for example) or appropriate clauses describing the relationship between the Directive and the other Community instruments, in order to ensure consistency. Moreover, this proposal is without prejudice to any legislative or other Community initiatives in the field of consumer protection.

There is a range of other complementary Community initiatives under way :

- The competitiveness of business-related services. In parallel with this proposal for a Directive on services in the Internal Market, the Commission has presented a Communication on the Competitiveness of Business-related services and their contribution to the performance of European enterprises¹⁹, in which it emphasises the importance of business services for the competitiveness of the EU and announces a series of supporting measures, including in particular the creation of a European Forum for business-related services. Whereas the Directive deals with the removal of legal and administrative barriers, the competitiveness of the services sector depends also on a number of complementary economic measures set out in the Communication on business-related services;
- professional qualifications. This proposal for a Directive complements the proposal for a Directive on the recognition of professional qualifications²⁰, given that it deals with questions other than professional qualifications – such as professional insurance, commercial communications and multidisciplinary activities. The two proposals are fully compatible since, where freedom of establishment is concerned, they are aimed at facilitating establishment for service providers and, where freedom of movement for services is concerned, they are based on the country of origin principle.
- posting of workers. The employment and working conditions applicable in the event of posting of workers are set out in Directive 96/71/EC²¹, which provides for the application of certain rules of the country to whose territory a worker is posted. For the sake of consistency with that directive, Article 17 of this proposal for a Directive contains a derogation from the country of origin principle where these rules are concerned. In order to facilitate the free movement of services and the application of Directive 96/71/EC, the proposal clarifies the allocation of tasks between the country of origin and the Member State of posting, and the administrative supervisory procedures (Article 24).

¹⁹ COM/2003/747

²⁰ Proposal for a Directive of the European Parliament and of the Council on the recognition of professional qualifications, COM/2002/0119 final, 7.3.2002.

²¹ Directive 96/71/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 16 December 1996 concerning the posting of workers in the framework of the provision of services.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

- reimbursement of costs of health care. The proposal for a Directive deals with the specific question of the compatibility of prior authorisation systems for assumption of the costs of health care provided in another Member State with the principle of freedom of movement for services. Article 23 of the proposal incorporates the distinction between hospital and non-hospital care that has been clearly established by the consolidated case law of the Court of Justice²². As regards the circumstances in which such prior authorisation is justified, the proposal clarifies the specific conditions for authorisation, in accordance with the case law of the Court of Justice. Broader issues have been raised in the high level reflection process on patient mobility and healthcare developments in the European Union, including patients' rights, entitlements and duties; facilitating cooperation between health systems; providing appropriate information for patients, professionals and policymakers; ensuring access and quality in cross-border care; the impact of enlargement; and in general how to improve legal certainty and reconcile national objectives with European obligations in this area. The Commission will issue a Communication in spring 2004 setting out a comprehensive strategy for addressing patient mobility and healthcare with proposals responding to the recommendations of the reflection process.

- safety of services. The Commission has presented a report on the safety of services for consumers²³, which emphasises the substantial lack of data and information on the risks and safety of services. It also notes that it is impossible to identify specific gaps in Member State systems or significant differences in the level of protection, and that there is a lack of barriers to trade resulting from different national requirements that could justify harmonisation of national rules on the safety of services. The report concludes that the priority for Community action must be to improve the collection of key data in this area and set up a system for exchange of information on policy and regulatory developments. If it appears that there is a need to do so, measures establishing procedures for the definition of European standards will be adopted. The report foresees the establishment of a suitable Community framework to this effect. These analyses are, therefore, complementary to and consistent with this proposal for a Directive, which, moreover, provides for the possibility of derogations on a case-by-case basis aimed at guaranteeing the safety of services (Article 19). The Council, in its resolution of 1 December 2003 on the safety of services²⁴, has warmly welcomed the Commission's report.

- services of general interest. The Commission has launched a broad debate on the role of the European Union in promoting the provision of high-quality services of general interest on the basis of a *Green Paper on services of general interest*²⁵. This proposal for a Directive does not go into this question as such or the question of opening up these services to competition. It covers all services that correspond to an economic activity within the meaning of the case law of the Court relating to Article 49 of the Treaty. It does not, therefore, cover non-economic services of general interest but only services of general

²² See "Report on the application of internal market rules to health services: implementation by the Member States of the Court's jurisprudence", Commission Staff Working Paper, SEC (2003) 900, 28.7.2003.

²³ Report on the safety of services for consumers, COM (2003) 313 final of 6.6.2003.

²⁴ OJ C 299 of 10.12.2003, p1.

²⁵ COM (2003) 270 final, 21.5.2003.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

economic interest. It should be noted that, in this proposal, certain activities that may be linked to services of general economic interest are subject, in so far as this is justified by their specific nature, to derogations from the country of origin principle. These include, in particular, postal services, transport and electricity, gas and water distribution services. Neither does the proposal cover electronic communications as far as matters covered by the legislative package adopted in 2002 are concerned nor transport services to the extent that they are regulated by other Community instruments based on Article 71 or Article 80(2) of the Treaty. Even in the fields covered by the Directive, it does not affect the freedom of the Member States to define what they consider to be services of general interest and how they should function. In particular, the Directive does not affect the freedom of the Member States to organise public service broadcasting in accordance with protocol 32 of the Treaty on public service broadcasting in the Member States.

- GATS negotiations. The proposal for a Directive is an Internal Market instrument and therefore concerns only service providers established in a Member State, including, as laid down in Article 48 of the Treaty, companies or firms formed in accordance with the law of a Member State and having their registered office, central administration or principal place of business within the Community. It does not cover external aspects and, in particular, does not cover:
 - the case of operators from third countries who wish to establish in a Member State (first establishment in the EU)
 - the case of operators from third countries who wish to provide services in the EU
 - the case of branches of companies from third countries in a Member State (in the sense of Article 48 of the Treaty) who, not being companies formed in accordance with the legislation of a Member State, may not benefit from this Directive.

International trade in services is covered by international negotiations, particularly in the framework of GATS. In this connection, it should be emphasised that the EU is a very open market compared with many trading partners. The proposal does not affect these negotiations, which are aimed at facilitating trade in services and which reinforce the need for the EU swiftly to establish a genuine Internal Market in services to ensure the competitiveness of European businesses and strengthen Europe's negotiating position.

- eEurope: the eEurope Initiative and eEurope 2005 Action Plan aim to develop modern public services and a dynamic environment for electronic commerce in the EU. eGovernment is one of the key elements in implementation of eEurope and it also plays an important role in realising the Lisbon strategy. The proposal is thus coherent with the objective of the eGovernment initiative because it aims at simplifying administrative procedures.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

- Unfair commercial practices. The proposed Directive on unfair business-to-consumer commercial practices²⁶ regulates those commercial practices which cause harm to consumers' economic interests. That proposal does not cover broader regulation of economic activities such as conditions of establishment. It aims to reduce Internal Market barriers which arise from a fragmented approach to the regulation of traders' behaviour in relation to their consumers, such as misleading or aggressive sales tactics.
- Co-operation between national authorities responsible for the application of consumer law. The proposal of the Commission for a Regulation²⁷ on co-operation in the area of consumer protection establishes a network of competent authorities responsible for the protection of consumers in cross-border situations. The proposal ensures that each Member State, on request, effectively protects all EU consumers from rogue traders operating in its territory. In order to ensure effective and efficient enforcement in cross-border cases, the Regulation harmonises certain powers and procedures within the Member States. It also eliminates barriers within Member States to protecting foreign consumers. The provisions on cooperation in this Directive, which do not address the same problems, will be complemented by the Regulation in respect of consumer protection.
- Revision of the acquis in respect of consumer protection. This proposal for a Directive is coherent with the revision of the acquis in respect of consumer protection, including the move towards full harmonisation, notably in the area of contract law.
- The “notification” Directive 98/34/EC. In the case of a draft national law containing a requirement listed in Article 15(2) of this proposal for a Directive, which applies specifically to an information society service and therefore falls within the field of application of Directive 98/34/EC as amended by Directive 98/48/EC, the notification of such a draft in accordance with Directive 98/34/EC as amended by Directive 98/48/EC would also comply with Article 15(6) of this Directive. Furthermore, the Commission is currently examining the possibility of extending the field of application of Directive 98/34/EC to services other than information society services. In this case, the notification procedure provided for in that Directive would, for the services concerned, replace the notification laid down in Article 15(6) of this Directive.
- Private international law. The Commission has presented two initiatives in the area of rules on conflict of laws:
 - the proposal for a Regulation on the law applicable to non-contractual obligations²⁸ which aims to establish common rules on conflicts of law in ²⁶ Proposal for a Directive of the European Parliament and of the Council concerning unfair business-to-consumer commercial practices in the Internal Market and amending directives 84/450/EEC, 97/7/EC and 98/27/EC (the Unfair Commercial Practices Directive). COM (2003) 356 final of 18.06.2003

²⁷ Proposal for a Regulation of the European Parliament and of the Council on cooperation between national authorities responsible for the enforcement of consumer protection laws ("the regulation on consumer protection cooperation") COM (2003) 443 final of 18.07.2003

²⁸ Proposal for a European Parliament and Council Regulation on the law applicable to non-contractual obligations ("Rome II"). COM (2003) 427 final.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

order to determine the applicable law in non-contractual matters (the applicable law could be that of a third country). In order to ensure coherence with instruments, such as, for example, this proposal for a Directive, which are adopted in the framework of Internal Market policy and which apply the country of origin principle, the proposal for a Regulation provides (in Article 23(2)) for a specific derogation to ensure the application of this principle;

- the Green Paper on the conversion of the Rome Convention of 1980 on the law applicable to contractual obligations into a Community instrument²⁹. The Commission states explicitly in this Green Paper “that it is clear to the Commission that such an instrument must leave intact Internal Market principles contained in the Treaty or in secondary law”.

These instruments could, however, play an important role not only for the activities which are not covered by this Directive but also for the questions which are the object of derogations to the country of origin principle, notably the derogation in relation to contracts concluded by consumers, as well as the derogation relating to the non-contractual liability of the provider in the case of an accident occurring in the context of his activity which affects a person in a Member State which a provider visits.

Finally, it should be noted that the question of determining the jurisdiction of courts is not dealt with by this Directive, but by Regulation (EC) 44/2001 of the Council of 22 December 2000 concerning jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of judgments in civil and commercial matters or other Community instruments such as the Directive 96/71/EC.

6. LEGAL ASPECTS

a) Legal base and choice of instrument

The proposal for a Directive is based on Articles 47(2) and 55 of the Treaty³⁰, as well as on Articles 71 and 80(2) of the Treaty for matters concerning transport that are not regulated by other Community instruments based on the latter two articles. This legal base is justified by both its objective and its content:

- objective: Directives adopted under Article 47(2) must aim “to make it easier for persons to take up and pursue activities as self-employed persons”, which is precisely the aim of this proposal;
- content: the content of the proposal is clearly directed at effectively eliminating obstacles to the freedom of establishment and the free movement of services by means of provisions that prohibit certain requirements and guarantee the free movement of services. Other provisions harmonise certain questions in a ²⁹ A Green Paper on the conversion of the Rome Convention of 1980 on the law applicable to contractual obligations into a Community instrument and its modernisation, COM (2002) 654 final, 14 January 2003.

³⁰ Article 55 refers to Article 47(2), making it applicable to the free movement of services.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

targeted manner, or ensure administrative cooperation to the extent necessary for eliminating these obstacles.

As for the choice of instrument, Article 47(2) specifies the use of a Directive.

b) Subsidiarity

The proposal for a Directive is aimed at eliminating legal obstacles to the freedom of establishment for service providers and the free movement of services. The obstacles in question have been clearly identified on the basis of complaints, petitions and questions from the European Parliament, consultation of interested parties, and studies or analyses.

This aim cannot be achieved by unilateral action on the part of the Member States. In accordance with the case law of the Court of Justice, some of these obstacles may be justified in the absence of a Community instrument and therefore, if they are to be eliminated, necessitate prior co-ordination of national schemes, including through administrative cooperation. Other obstacles are already incompatible with Articles 43 and 49 of the Treaty but have not yet been eliminated by the Member States on their own initiative and would require case-by-case treatment by means of large numbers of infringement procedures, which, as already emphasised, would be as ineffective as it would be unmanageable.

Furthermore, the concern to keep to a minimum interference with the characteristics of national regimes has justified certain legislative choices:

- the proposal does not result in detailed and systematic harmonisation of all the national rules applicable to services; it limits itself to the essential aspects that must be co-ordinated in order to guarantee freedom of establishment and the free movement of services;
- the application of the country of origin principle will make it possible to achieve the objective of guaranteeing the free movement of services whilst allowing the various national regimes to co-exist with all their distinctive characteristics. These regimes may not be used to restrict the provision of services by an operator established in another Member State;
- the proposal avoids interference with the institutional organisation of the regulation of services in the Member States. For example, it merely specifies the functions of the single points of contact without imposing any institutional characteristics, (type of body – administrative, chamber of commerce, professional body etc.); similarly, in its definition of "competent authority", the proposal (Article 4(8)) takes account of the fact that the competent authority for a given activity may, depending on the Member State, be a professional body, a government authority or a professional association, but does not impose one or the other.

c) Proportionality

The principle of proportionality referred to in Article 5 of the Treaty is the factor underlying several legislative choices in the proposal for a Directive:

- the choice between types of regulation: harmonisation is proposed only as a last resort for matters for which neither administrative cooperation nor reliance on the adoption of codes of conduct by the interested parties at Community level are sufficient; harmonisation is proposed in areas where it is proved to be necessary, such as consumer protection;

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

- the content of the harmonisation: the proposal gives as much priority as possible to the service provider's obligations as regards information so that recipients can make an informed choice;
- the balance between the various regulatory methods: the Directive proposes a balance between, on the one hand, the scope of the country of origin principle and, on the other, the extent of harmonisation, administrative cooperation and reliance on codes of conduct, as well as the number and scope of derogations to the country of origin principle. The balance proposed represents a selective and flexible approach that takes full account of all the interests concerned;
- the concern to provide a suitable framework for SMEs: the provisions on single points of contact, electronic procedures, information and assistance for service providers, the country of origin principle, the simplification of procedures for the posting of workers, and the voluntary measures in connection with quality policy etc. all stem directly from a wish to make it easier for SMEs to exercise the freedoms of the Internal Market.

All these legislative choices make it possible to propose a balanced instrument containing provisions that do not go beyond what is necessary for achieving the aim of establishing a genuine Internal Market in services.

7. SPECIFIC QUESTIONS

a) What activities are covered by the Directive (Articles 2 and 4)?

Article 2 defines the scope of the Directive ("services supplied by providers established in a Member State") and Article 4(1) defines a "service" ("any self-employed economic activity, as provided for by Article 50 of the Treaty, consisting of the provision of a service against consideration").

This definition covers a very wide range of activities including, for example, management consultancy, certification and testing, maintenance, facilities management and security, advertising services, recruitment services, including the services of temporary employment agencies, services provided by commercial agents, legal or tax consultancy, property services, such as those provided by estate agencies, construction services, architectural services, distributive trades, organisation of trade fairs and exhibitions, car-hire, security services, tourist services, including travel agencies and tourist guides, audiovisual services, sports centres and amusement parks, leisure services, health services and personal domestic services, such as assistance for old people.

The definition of "service" provided for in this proposal is based on the case law of the Court of Justice³¹, according to which "services" mean any self-employed economic activity normally performed for remuneration, which need not, however, be paid by those for whom the service is performed. The essential characteristic of remuneration lies in the fact that it constitutes consideration for the service in question, irrespective of how this consideration is financed. Consequently, a service is any activity through which a provider participates in the economy, irrespective of his legal status or aims, or the field of action concerned.

³¹ Judgments of 26 April 1988, Bond van Adverteerders, Case 352/85, point 16; of 27 September 1988, Humbel, 263/86, point 17; of 11 April 2000, Deliège, C-51/96 and C-191/97, point 56; of 12 July 2001, Smits and Peerbooms, Case C-157/99, point 57.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

Thus the following are covered:

- services provided to consumers, to businesses or to both;
- services provided by an operator who has travelled to the Member State of the recipient, services provided at a distance (via the Internet, for example), services provided in the country of origin following travel by the recipient, or services provided in another Member State to which both the provider and the recipient have travelled (tourist guides, for example);
- services for which a fee is charged or which are free to the final recipient.

However, the definition does not cover non-economic activities, nor activities performed by the State for no consideration as part of its social, cultural, education and judicial functions where there is no element of remuneration.

b) Why should certain services or fields be excluded from the scope of the Directive (Article 2)?

The Directive does not apply to financial services because these activities are already covered by a comprehensive policy – the Financial Services Action Plan³², which is currently being implemented and is aimed, like this proposal for a Directive, at establishing a genuine Internal Market in services. For the same reasons, the Directive does not apply to electronic communications services and networks as far as the questions governed by the Directives in the "telecom package" adopted in 2002 are concerned (Directives 2002/19/EC, 2002/20/EC, 2002/21/CE, 2002/22/EC and 2002/58/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council). Given that transport services are already covered by a set of Community instruments dealing with specific issues in this field, it is appropriate to exclude transport services from the scope of application of this Directive to the extent that they are regulated by other Community instruments based on Articles 71 and 80(2) of the Treaty.

The Directive does not apply in the field of taxation, which has its own legal base. However, in accordance with the case law of the Court, certain tax measures that are not covered by a Community instrument may constitute restrictions contrary to Articles 43³³ (freedom of establishment) and 49³⁴ of the Treaty (free movement of services), particularly where they have a discriminatory effect. This is why Articles 14 (prohibited requirements in connection with freedom of establishment) and 16 (principle of country of origin in connection with free movement of services) of the proposal for a Directive apply to tax measures that are not covered by a Community instrument.

Finally, it should be noted that the Directive does not apply to activities covered by Article 45 of the Treaty. This provides expressly that the chapter on the freedom of ³² "Implementing the framework for financial markets: action plan", COM (1999) 232, 11.5.1999.

³³ For example, Judgment of 12 March 1994, Halliburton, Case C-1/93.

³⁴ For example, Judgment of 29 November 2001, de Coster, Case C-17/00.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

establishment and that on services (by virtue of Article 55 of the Treaty) do not apply to those activities which are directly and specifically connected with the exercise of official authority.

c) What are "single points of contact" (Article 6)?

The concept of "single points of contact" does not involve each Member State setting up a single, physical, centralised agency for its entire territory. The point of contact is "single" only as far as the individual service provider is concerned. It means that a service provider must be able to complete all the formalities and procedures required for the exercise of service activities, particularly those relating to authorisations, through one and the same body. He must not be obliged to visit a number of different bodies, organisations, offices etc., but must be able to complete all the necessary formalities via a single interlocutor.

The number of single points of contact in each Member State, and their institutional nature, will vary depending on the internal organisation of the Member State and in particular the regional or local competencies or the activities concerned. Single points of contact may be the authorities that are directly competent – for issuing authorisation, for example – or bodies that merely function as intermediaries between the service providers and the directly competent authorities.

d) What is the difference between the requirements to be eliminated (Article 14) and the requirements to be evaluated (Article 15)?

The report lists a large number of legal obstacles resulting from requirements in the legal systems of the Member States that prevent, hamper or discourage the establishment of service providers in certain Member States. With a view to making it easier to exercise the freedom of establishment, the proposal provides for two different solutions depending on the type of requirement in question:

- on the one hand, the proposal prohibits certain requirements, listed in Article 14 ("prohibited requirements"), which, particularly in the light of the case law of the Court of Justice, are manifestly incompatible with the freedom of establishment, particularly where they have a discriminatory effect. The prohibition of these requirements will mean that, during the transposition period, each Member State will have to examine systematically whether they exist in its legal system and, if so, eliminate them;
- on the other hand, the proposal requires the Member States to examine a number of other requirements, listed in Article 15 ("requirements to be evaluated"), that have major restrictive effects on the freedom of establishment and have been reported by interested parties, but may be justified in certain cases depending on the precise content of the rules in question and the circumstances in which they apply. For this category of requirements, therefore, during the transposition period, Member States will have to conduct a "screening" of their legislation – in other words, they will have to examine whether requirements of this kind exist in their legal systems, evaluate them in the light of the conditions laid down in the Directive (objectively justifiable by an overriding reason relating to the general interest and satisfying the principle of proportionality), and eliminate them if these conditions are not met. A report on the implementation of this Article must be drawn up not later than at the end of the transposition period.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

e) What will the mutual evaluation procedure involve (Articles 9, 15, 30 and 41)?

The proposal for a Directive provides for the mutual evaluation of the application of Article 9(1), which sets out the conditions under which a service activity may be subject to an authorisation scheme³⁵, Article 15, which lists a number of requirements to be evaluated, and Article 30, which specifies the conditions under which multidisciplinary activities may be limited.

The procedure consists of several phases:

- during the transposition period, Member States must first conduct a "screening" of their legislation in order to ascertain whether requirements of the kind referred to in these three Articles exist in their legal systems, evaluate them in the light of the conditions laid down in the Articles in question, and eliminate or modify them if these conditions are not met,
- by the end of the transposition period at the latest, Member States must draw up a report on the implementation of these three Articles. Each report will be submitted to the other Member States and interested parties, including national consumer associations. Member States will then have six months in which to submit their observations on each of the reports by the other Member States and during the same period the Commission will consult interested parties. This "peer review" procedure will enable exchange between Member States of best practice in the area of the modernising the regulation of services,
- by 31 December 2008 at the latest, the Commission will draw up a synthesis report, accompanied where appropriate by proposals for further initiatives.

A procedure of this kind will make it possible to keep track of the process of modernisation and reform of the regulatory schemes governing services and to identify any need for additional action at Community level.

f) How will the implementation of Articles 14, 15 and 16 of the Directive relate to the Commission's role as guardian of the Treaty, in particular as regards infringement procedures?

The list of prohibited requirements (Article 14), requirements to be evaluated (Article 15) and restrictions prohibited under Article 16 obviously do not prevent the Commission from launching, without waiting until the Directive has been fully transposed, infringement procedures against any measures contrary to the Treaty taken by Member States that it becomes aware of, particularly following a complaint. The obligations provided for in Articles 14, 15 and 16 of the Directive and the procedures provided for in Article 226 of the Treaty have different aims. While the latter concern individual cases resulting from specific circumstances and measures in a particular Member State, the former are on the other hand aimed at ensuring, in a general and systematic fashion, that the legal systems correspond to the requirements of a genuine Internal Market in services in which the freedom of establishment and free movement of services are facilitated.

³⁵ This does not concern authorisation schemes imposed or permitted by Community law (Article 9(3)), notably those in the field of the environment.

- g) Are requirements that are listed neither in Article 14 nor in Article 15 considered to be in conformity with the freedom of establishment provided for in Article 43 of the Treaty?

Unlike Article 16(3) of the proposal, which lays down the principle of prohibiting restrictions on the free movement of services and gives a few examples purely for illustrative purposes, Article 14 contains a list of requirements concerning freedom of establishment that must be eliminated and Article 15 contains a list of requirements relating to establishment which must be evaluated. The requirements listed are those that have been identified, particularly in the report, as having considerable restrictive effects and which must, therefore, be the subject of a systematic and general modernisation process. Articles 14 and 15 do not, therefore, concern all the types of restriction that are incompatible with Article 43 of the Treaty, and hence the absence of certain requirements from these lists does not mean that the requirements in question are presumed to be in conformity with the Treaty. Consequently, these lists in no way affect the Commission's scope for opening infringement procedures for failure to respect Article 43 of the Treaty, as the Member States are still obliged to ensure that their legislation is compatible with Community law in all respects.

- h) Why is there a section specifically devoted to the rights of recipients of services (Chapter III Section 2)?

The Commission receives large number of complaints from users, particularly consumers, who, even though they wish to benefit from cross-border services and are prepared to bear the cost of such transactions, come up against various types of obstacles. In particular, consumers are often confronted with the application of higher tariffs or with refusals to offer services simply on the grounds that they are nationals of a particular Member State or are resident in a particular country. Problems of this kind, which result not only from acts by public authorities but also from the behaviour of private operators, have been reported in several areas including, for example, participation in sporting or cultural events, access to monuments, museums and tourist sites, promotional offers, sales of airline tickets, use of leisure facilities, entrance to amusement parks etc.

The persistence of discrimination of this kind restricts or eliminates the possibility of cross-border transactions and makes European citizens more acutely aware of the lack of a genuine Internal Market in services. This inconsistency with the idea of an area without internal borders is particularly felt by recipients now that technological developments provide the opportunity to overcome geographical distances and natural barriers by making it possible for services that had hitherto been strictly national to be provided across borders.

The principle of non-discrimination in the Internal Market implies that access by recipients – particularly consumers – to services offered to the public should not be denied or rendered more difficult simply because of the formal criterion of the recipient's nationality or place of residence. Consequently, the Directive lays down, to varying degrees, obligations for Member States and service-providers.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

For the Member States, the proposal stipulates:

- (Article 20) that Member States may not impose restrictions on recipients on the use of services provided by operators established in a different Member State, and
- (Article 21(1)), that neither the Member State of origin of the service provider nor the Member State of destination may apply discriminatory measures to recipients based on nationality or place of residence as such. This does not apply to cases where tariffs vary on the basis of other objective criteria such as a direct link with contributions paid by certain recipients.

For service providers, the proposal in Article 21(2) prohibits them, in their general conditions relating to access to their services, from providing for refusal of access, or subjecting access to less favourable conditions, on grounds of the nationality or place of residence of the recipient. This does not prevent service providers from refusing to provide services or applying different tariffs and conditions if they can demonstrate that this is directly justified by objective reasons, such as actual additional costs resulting from the distances involved or the technical aspects of the service .

i) Why is the question of the posting of third country nationals covered (Article 25)?

The report has shown that service providers who, in the context of providing a service, post a worker who is a third country national from one Member State to another often encounter legal obstacles, including in particular the obligation for the worker in question to have a visa or work-permit issued by the authorities of the Member State to which he is posted. The report has also shown that these difficulties affect a whole range of service activities, including those in high-tech sectors that are suffering from a lack of specialised workers.

If these obstacles are to be eliminated, it is vital that the Member State of posting has a number of guarantees regarding the legality of the postings and supervision by the Member State of origin. With a view to giving the Member State of origin this kind of responsibility, it will under Article 25 of the proposal be obliged, on the one hand, to ensure that service providers post workers only if they meet the residence and lawful-employment requirements laid down in their national legislation, and on the other hand to readmit the worker to their territory. In view of these guarantees, Member States of posting may not lay down requirements that conflict with the country of origin principle, such as an obligation to have an entry, exit, residence or work permit, except in the cases provided for in Article 25(2)..

j) Why does the country of origin principle not apply to certain matters or activities (Article 17)?

The derogations to the country of origin principle have been determined according to two types of consideration:

- (1) The Community acquis. Certain derogations are provided for in order to take into account the fact that existing Community instruments apply the rule according to which cross-border service provision may be subject to the legislation of the country of destination. Concerning a rule contrary to Article

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

16 of the Directive, derogations are necessary in order to ensure coherence with this acquis. Such derogations concern Directive 96/71/EC (posting of workers), Regulation (EEC) 1408/71 (social security), Regulation (EEC) 259/93 (transport of waste) and certain instruments on the free movement of persons and the recognition of qualifications.

- (2) In other fields, the free movement of services is already the subject of a framework formed by Community instruments which adopt a specific approach compared with that taken in this Directive and which justify a derogation, in particular those dealing with protection of personal data³⁶.
- (3) The level of disparity between national regimes. For certain activities or matters, too wide a divergence in national approaches or an insufficient level of Community integration may exist and prevent the application of the country of origin principle. As far as possible, the Directive harmonises, or provides for strengthened administrative co-operation, in order to establish the mutual confidence necessary for the application of the country of origin principle. However, in certain cases, it is not possible at this stage to achieve such harmonisation in this Directive or to establish such co-operation and it is therefore necessary to allow for a derogation. These cases concern derogations relating to certain activities such as notarial acts, postal services, electricity, gas and water distribution services as well as those relating to certain questions such as intellectual property, total prohibitions justified by reasons of public policy, public security or public health, rules linked to the specific characteristics of the place where the service is provided justified by reasons of public policy, public security or the protection of public health or the environment, authorisations schemes relating to the reimbursement of the costs of hospital care, registration of vehicles leased in another Member State or derogations on contractual matters or extra-contractual liability.

³⁶

The Directive on the protection of personal data (which also applies the country of origin principle) does not use the same criterion to define the country of origin: it uses the criterion of the establishment of the “controller”, while this proposal uses the establishment of the “provider”. A derogation is therefore necessary to avoid any conflict which could lead to the designation of two different countries of origin according to each of the Directives.

Summary

Chapter I. General provisions

- Article 1. Objective
- Article 2. Scope
- Article 3. Relationship with other provisions of Community law
- Article 4. Definitions

Chapter II. Freedom of establishment for service providers

Section 1. Administrative simplification

- Article 5. Simplification of procedures
- Article 6. Single points of contact
- Article 7. Right to information
- Article 8. Procedures by electronic means

Section 2. Authorisations

- Article 9. Authorisation schemes
- Article 10. Conditions for the granting of authorisation
- Article 11. Duration of authorisation
- Article 12. Selection between several candidates
- Article 13. Authorisation procedures

Section 3. Requirements that are prohibited or subject to evaluation

- Article 14. Prohibited requirements
- Article 15. Requirements to be evaluated

Chapter III. Free movement of services

Section 1. Country of origin principle and derogations

- Article 16. Country of origin principle
- Article 17. General derogations
- Article 18. Transitional derogations
- Article 19. Case-by-case derogations

Section 2. Rights of recipients of services

- Article 20. Prohibited restrictions
- Article 21. Non-discrimination
- Article 22. Assistance for recipients
- Article 23. Assumption of health care costs

Section 3. Posting of workers

- Article 24. Specific provisions on the posting of workers
- Article 25. The posting of third country nationals

Chapter IV. Quality of services

- Article 26. Information on providers and their services
- Article 27. Professional insurance and guarantees
- Article 28. After-sale guarantees
- Article 29. Commercial communications by the regulated professions
- Article 30. Multidisciplinary activities
- Article 31. Policy on quality of services
- Article 32. Settlement of legal disputes
- Article 33. Information on the good repute of providers

Chapter V. Supervision

- Article 34. Effectiveness of supervision
- Article 35. Mutual assistance
- Article 36. Mutual assistance in the event of the temporary movement of the provider
- Article 37. Mutual assistance in the event of case-by-case derogations
- Article 38. Implementing measures

Chapter VI. Convergence programme

- Article 39. Codes of conduct at Community level
- Article 40. Additional harmonisation
- Article 41. Mutual evaluation
- Article 42. Committee
- Article 43. Report
- Article 44. Amendment of Directive 1998/27/EC (injunctions)

Chapter VII. Final provisions

Proposal for a

DIRECTIVE OF THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND OF THE COUNCIL
on Services in the Internal Market
(Text with EEA relevance)

THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN UNION,

Having regard to the Treaty establishing the European Community, and in particular Article 47(2) first and third sentence and Article 55 thereof, as well as Article 71 and Article 80(2);

Having regard to the proposal from the Commission¹,

Having regard to the opinion of the European Economic and Social Committee²,

Having regard to the opinion of the Committee of the Regions³,

Acting in accordance with the procedure referred to in Article 251 of the Treaty⁴,

Whereas:

- (1) The European Union is seeking to forge ever closer links between the States and peoples of Europe and to ensure economic and social progress; in accordance with Article 14(2) of the Treaty, the Internal Market comprises an area without internal frontiers in which the free movement of services and the freedom of establishment are ensured; eliminating obstacles to the development of service activities between Member States is essential in order to strengthen the integration of the peoples of Europe and to promote balanced and sustainable economic and social progress.
- (2) The report from the Commission on "The State of the Internal Market for Services"⁵ drew up an inventory of a large number of barriers which are preventing or slowing down the development of services between Member States, in particular those provided by SMEs which are predominant in the field of services. The report concludes that a decade after the envisaged completion of the Internal Market, there is still a huge gap between the vision of an integrated EU economy and the reality as experienced by European citizens and service providers. The barriers listed affect a wide variety of service activities across all stages of the service provider's activity and have a number of common features, including, in particular, the fact that they often arise from administrative burdens, the legal uncertainty associated with cross-border activity and the lack of mutual trust between Member States.

¹ OJ C of , p. .

² OJ C of , p. .

³ OJ C of , p. .

⁴ OJ C du , p. .

⁵ COM (2002) 441 final, 30 July 2002

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

- (3) Since services constitute the engine of economic growth and account for 70% of GDP and employment in the majority of Member States, this fragmentation of the Internal Market has a negative impact on the entire European economy, in particular on the competitiveness of SMEs, and prevents consumers from gaining access to a greater variety of competitively priced services. The European Parliament and the Council have emphasised that the removal of legal barriers to the establishment of a genuine Internal Market is a matter of priority in achieving the goal set by the Lisbon European Council of making the European Union the most competitive and dynamic knowledge-based economy in the world by 2010. Removing those barriers is essential in order to revive the European economy, particularly in terms of employment and investment.
- (4) Those barriers cannot be removed solely by relying on direct application of Articles 43 and 49 of the Treaty, since, on the one hand, addressing them on a case-by-case basis by infringement procedures against the Member States concerned would, especially following enlargement, be both inefficient and unmanageable for national and Community institutions, and, on the other, the lifting of many barriers requires prior co-ordination of national legal schemes, including the setting up of administrative co-operation. As the European Parliament and the Council have recognised, a Community legislative instrument makes it possible to achieve a genuine Internal Market for services.
- (5) It is therefore necessary to remove barriers to the freedom of establishment for service providers in Member States and barriers to the free movement of services between Member States and to guarantee providers and recipients the legal certainty necessary for the exercise in practice of these two fundamental freedoms of the Treaty. Given that the barriers in the Internal Market for services affect operators wanting to become established in other Member States as well as those providing a service in another Member State without establishing there, it is necessary to allow service providers to develop their service activities within the Internal Market either by becoming established in a Member State or by making use of the free movement of services. Service providers must be able to choose between these two freedoms, according to their strategy for growth in each Member State.
- (6) This Directive establishes a general legal framework which benefits a wide variety of services while taking into account the distinctive features of each type of activity or profession and their system of regulation. This framework is based on a dynamic and selective approach which entails the removal, as a matter of priority, of barriers which may be dismantled quickly and, for the others, the launching of a process of evaluation, consultation and complementary harmonisation of specific issues, which will make possible the progressive and co-ordinated modernisation of national regulatory systems for service activities which is vital in order to achieve a genuine Internal Market for services by 2010. The Directive provides for a balanced mix of measures involving targeted harmonisation, administrative co-operation, the country of origin principle and encouragement for the development of codes of conduct on certain issues. This co-ordination of national legislative regimes ensures a high degree of Community legal integration and a high level of protection of general interest objectives - especially consumer protection - which is vital in order to establish mutual trust between Member States.
- (7) This Directive recognises the importance of the roles of professional orders and professional associations in the regulation of service activities and the development of professional rules.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

- (8) Given that the objectives of the envisaged action, namely the elimination of barriers to the freedom of establishment for service providers in the Member States and to the free provision of services between Member States, cannot be sufficiently achieved by the Member States and because of the breadth of action required can therefore be better achieved at Community level, the Community may adopt measures, in accordance with the principle of subsidiarity set out in Article 5 of the Treaty. In accordance with the principle of proportionality, as also set out in that article, this Directive does not go beyond what is necessary to achieve these objectives.
- (9) This Directive is entirely consistent with other current Community initiatives concerning services, particularly those relating to the competitiveness of business-related services, the safety of services⁶, and work on patient mobility and the development of health care in the European Union. It is also coherent with current initiatives in the area of Internal Market such as the proposal for a European Parliament and Council Regulation concerning sales promotions in the Internal Market⁷ or those on consumer protection such as the proposal for a Directive on Unfair Commercial Practices⁸ and the proposal for a Regulation on co-operation between national authorities responsible for the enforcement of consumer protection laws⁹.
- (10) This Directive respects fundamental rights and observes the principles which are recognised notably in the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the EU and in particular in Articles 8, 15, 21 and 47.
- (11) The exclusion of financial services from the scope of application of this Directive results from the fact that these activities are currently the subject of a specific Action Plan aiming at achieving, as does this Directive, a genuine Internal Market for services. The notion of financial services is defined by Directive 2002/65/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 23 September 2002 concerning the distance marketing of consumer financial services and amending Council Directive 90/619/EEC and Directives 97/7/EC and 98/27/EC¹⁰. This Directive defines a financial service as any service of a banking, credit, insurance, personal pension, investment or payment nature.
- (12) Taking into account the adoption in 2002 of a package of legislative instruments relating to electronic communications networks and services, as well as to associated resources and services, which has established a regulatory framework to facilitate access to these activities within the Internal Market, notably through the elimination of most individual authorisation schemes, it is necessary to exclude issues dealt with by these instruments from the scope of application of this Directive.
- (13) Taking account of the fact that the Treaty provides a specific legal base for matters of taxation and of the Community instruments already adopted in this field, it is necessary to exclude the field of taxation from the scope of application of this Directive, with the exception, however, of the provisions of the latter concerning ⁶ Report from the Commission on the safety of services, COM (2003) 313 final; Council Resolution of 1 December 2003 on the safety of services, OJ C 299 of 10.12.2003, p1.

⁷ COM (2002) 585 final.

⁸ COM (2003) 356 final.

⁹ COM (2003) 443 final.

¹⁰ OJ L 271 of 9 October 2002, p16.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

prohibited requirements and the free movement of services. Harmonisation in the area of taxation has been achieved notably by the Sixth Council Directive 77/388/EEC of 17 May 1977 on the harmonisation of the laws of the Member States relating to turnover taxes - Common system of value added tax: uniform basis of assessment¹¹, Council Directive 90/434/EEC of 23 July 1990 on the common system of taxation applicable to mergers, divisions, transfers of assets and exchanges of shares concerning companies of different Member States¹², Council Directive 90/435/EEC of 23 July 1990 on the common system of taxation applicable in the case of parent companies and subsidiaries of different Member States¹³ and Council Directive 2003/49/EC of 3 June 2003 on a common system of taxation applicable to interest and royalty payments made between associated companies of different Member States¹⁴. This Directive does not aim to introduce specific new rules or schemes in the field of taxation. Its sole objective is to remove restrictions, certain of which are fiscal in nature, and in particular those which are discriminatory, to the freedom of establishment and the free movement of services, in accordance with the case law of the Court with respect to Articles 43 and 49 of the Treaty. The field of VAT is the subject of harmonisation at Community level according to which service providers carrying out cross-border activities can be subject to obligations other than those of the country in which they are established. The Commission is, however, engaged in work on the possibility of proposing to Member States the establishment of a system of one-stop shops for service providers in order that all their obligations could be fulfilled by means of a single electronic portal of the fiscal administration in their home Member State.

- (14) Given that transport services are already covered by a set of Community instruments dealing with specific issues in this field, it is appropriate to exclude transport services from the scope of application of this Directive to the extent that they are regulated by other Community instruments based on Articles 71 and 80(2) of the Treaty. However, this Directive applies to services that are not regulated by specific instruments concerning transport, such as cash in transit or the transport of mortal remains.
- (15) There is already a considerable body of Community law on service activities, especially the regulated professions, postal services, television broadcasting, information society services and services relating to travel, holidays and package tours. In addition, service activities are also covered by other instruments which do not deal with a specific category of services such as those relating to consumer protection. This Directive builds on, and thus complements, the Community acquis. Where a service activity is already covered by one or more Community instruments, this Directive and those instruments shall all apply, the requirements laid down by one adding to those laid down by the others. This Directive provides for derogations and makes other appropriate provisions to avoid incompatibilities and ensure coherence with those Community instruments.
- (16) The concept of service covers a wide variety of ever-changing activities which include: business services such as management consultancy, certification and testing, facilities management including office maintenance and security, advertising, ¹¹ OJ L 145 of 13 June 1977, p1. Directive amended in the last instance by Directive 2003/92/EC (OJ L 260, 11.10.2003, p8).

¹² OJ L 225, 20.8.1990 p1.

¹³ OJ L 225, 20.08.1990 p6.

¹⁴ OJ L 157, 26.06.2003 p49.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

recruitment services including employment agencies, or the services of commercial agents; services provided both to businesses and to consumers, such as legal or fiscal advice, real estate services such as estate agencies, construction including the services of architects, transport, distributive trades, the organisation of trade fairs, car rental, travel agencies, security services; and consumer services, such as those in the field of tourism, including tour guides, audio-visual services, leisure services, sports centres and amusement parks; health and healthcare services or household support services, such as help for the elderly. These activities may involve services requiring the proximity of provider and recipient, services requiring travel by the recipient or the provider and services which may be provided at a distance, including via the Internet.

- (17) In accordance with the case law of the Court with regard to Articles 49 et seq of the Treaty, the concept of service covers any economic activity normally provided for remuneration without the service having to be paid for by those benefiting from it and regardless of the financing arrangements for the consideration which constitutes the remuneration. Any service whereby a provider participates in the economy, irrespective of his legal status or aims, or the field of action concerned, thus constitutes a service.
- (18) The characteristic of remuneration is absent from activities performed by the State for no consideration in fulfilment of its social, cultural, educational and legal obligations. These activities are not covered by the definition in Article 50 of the Treaty and do not therefore fall within the scope of this Directive.
- (19) This Directive does not affect the application of Articles 28 to 30 of the Treaty relating to the free of movement of goods. The restrictions prohibited pursuant to the country of origin principle provided for in this Directive cover the requirements applicable to access to service activities or to the exercise thereof and not those applicable to goods as such.
- (20) The concept of provider covers any natural person who is a national of a Member State or legal person who exercises a service activity there, under either the freedom of establishment or the freedom to provide services. The concept of provider is thus not limited solely to cross-border service provision under the freedom to provide services but also covers cases in which an operator establishes itself in a Member State in order to develop its service activities there. Moreover, the concept of a provider does not include the case of branches of companies from third countries in a Member State because, in accordance with Article 48 of the Treaty, the freedom of establishment and free movement of services may only benefit companies constituted in conformity with the legislation of a Member State and having their registered office, central administration or principal place of business within the Community.
- (21) Where an operator travels to another Member State to exercise a service activity there, a distinction must be made between situations covered by the freedom of establishment and those covered, due to the temporary nature of the activities concerned, by the free movement of services. According to the case law of the Court, the temporary nature of the activities in question must be assessed not only on the basis of the duration of the service, but also according to the, regularity, periodicity or continuity of the service provision. In any case, the temporary nature of the service provision does not mean that the service provider may not set up a certain infrastructure (for example, an office, chambers or consulting rooms) in the host

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

Member State in so far as that infrastructure is necessary for the purpose of providing the service in question.

- (22) The concept of authorisation scheme covers, inter alia, the administrative procedures for granting authorisations, licences, approvals or concessions, and also the obligation, in order to be eligible to exercise the activity, to be registered with a professional order or entered in a register, roll or database, to be officially appointed to a body or to obtain a “professional card”. Authorisation may be granted not only by a formal decision but also by an implicit decision arising, for example, from the silence of the competent authority or from the fact that the interested party must await acknowledgement of receipt of a declaration in order to commence the activity in question or for the latter to become lawful.
- (23) The concept of the co-ordinated field covers all requirements applicable to access to service activities and to the exercise thereof, in particular those laid down by the laws, regulations and administrative provisions of each Member State, whether or not they fall within an area harmonised at Community level or are general or specific in nature and regardless of the legal field to which they belong under national law.
- (24) As indicated by a considerable number of complaints and testimony from providers, one of the fundamental difficulties faced, in particular by SMEs, in accessing service activities and exercising them is the complexity, length and legal uncertainty of administrative procedures. For this reason, following the example of certain modernising and good administrative practice initiatives undertaken at Community and national level, it is necessary to establish principles of administrative simplification, inter alia by the introduction, co-ordinated at Community level, of a system of single points of contact, limitation of the obligation of prior authorisation to cases in which this is essential and the introduction of the principle of tacit authorisation by the competent authorities after a certain period of time has elapsed. Such modernising action, while maintaining the requirements on transparency and the updating of information relating to operators, is intended to eliminate the delays, costs and dissuasive effects which arise, for example, from unnecessary or excessively complex and burdensome procedures, the duplication of procedures, the red tape involved in submitting documents, the use of discretionary powers by the competent authorities, indeterminate or excessively long periods before a response is given, the limited duration of validity of authorisations granted and disproportionate fees and penalties. Such practices have particularly significant dissuasive effects on providers wanting to develop their activities in other Member States and require co-ordinated modernisation within an enlarged Internal Market of 25 Member States.
- (25) In order to facilitate access to service activities and to the exercise thereof in the Internal Market, it is necessary to establish an objective, common to all Member States, of administrative simplification and to lay down provisions concerning, inter alia, single points of contact, the right to information, procedures by electronic means and the establishment of a framework for authorisation schemes. Other measures adopted at national level to meet that objective may involve a reduction of the number of procedures and formalities applicable to service activities while ensuring that they are essential in order to achieve a general interest objective and that they do not duplicate each other in terms of content or purpose.
- (26) With the aim of administrative simplification, general requirements of form, such as a certified translation, must not be imposed, except where this is objectively justified by a reason of overriding general interest, such as the protection of workers. It is also necessary to guarantee that an authorisation normally permits access to, or the exercise of, a service activity on the whole of the national territory, unless a new authorisation for each establishment, for example for each new hypermarket, is objectively justified by a reason of overriding general interest, such as protection of the urban environment.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

- (27) The purpose of the single points of contact provided for in this Directive is to ensure that each provider has a single point at which he can complete all procedures and formalities. The number of single points of contact per Member State may vary according to regional or local competencies or according to the activities concerned. The creation of single points of contact does not interfere with the allocation of functions among competent authorities within each national system. Where several authorities at regional or local level are competent, one of them may assume the role of single point of contact and then co-ordinate its functions with the other authorities. Single points of contact may be set up not only by administrative authorities but also by chambers of commerce or crafts, or by the professional orders or private bodies to which a Member State decides to entrust this function. Single points of contact have an important role to play in providing assistance to providers either as the authority directly competent to issue the documents necessary to access a service activity or as an intermediary between the provider and the authorities which are directly competent. In its Recommendation of 22 April 1997 on improving and simplifying the business environment for business start-ups, the Commission had already encouraged Member States to introduce points of contact to simplify formalities.
- (28) The setting up, in the reasonably near future, of electronic means of completing procedures and formalities will be vital for administrative simplification in the field of service activities, for the benefit of providers, recipients and competent authorities. In order to meet this obligation of result, national laws and other rules applicable to services may need to be adapted. The fact that it must be possible to complete these same procedures and formalities at a distance means in particular that Member States must ensure that they may be completed across borders. This obligation of result does not cover procedures or formalities such as visits to inspect the place where the activity is exercised, inspection of equipment or the physical examination of the service provider's aptitude, which by their very nature are impossible to complete at a distance.
- (29) The possibility of gaining access to a service activity may not be made subject to authorisation by the competent authorities unless that decision satisfies the criteria of non-discrimination, necessity and proportionality. This means, in particular, that authorisation schemes are only permissible where an a posteriori inspection would not be effective given the impossibility of ascertaining the defects of the services concerned a posteriori and taking account of the risks and dangers which could arise in the absence of a priori inspection. These provisions of the Directive cannot justify authorisation schemes which, in any case, are prohibited by other Community instruments such as Directive 1999/93/EC of the European Parliament and the Council of 13 December 1999 on a Community framework for electronic signatures¹⁵, or Directive 2000/31/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 8 June 2000 on certain legal aspects of information society services, in particular electronic commerce, in the Internal Market ('Directive on electronic commerce')¹⁶. The results of the process of mutual evaluation will make it possible to determine, at Community level, the types of activity for which authorisation schemes should be eliminated.

¹⁵ OJ L 13, 19.01.2000 p12.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

- (30) In cases where the number of authorisations available for an activity is limited because of scarcity of natural resources or technical capacity, for example the award of analogue radio frequencies or the exploitation of hydro-electric plant, a selection procedure between several potential candidates must be adopted, with the aim of developing through open competition the quality and conditions for supply of services available to users. Such a procedure must provide guarantees of transparency and impartiality and the authorisation thus granted must not have an excessive duration, must not be subject to automatic renewal and must not confer any advantage on the successful provider. In particular, the duration of the authorisation granted must be fixed in such a way that it does not restrict or limit free competition beyond what is necessary to enable the provider to recoup the cost of investment and to make a fair return on the capital invested. Cases where the number of authorisations is limited for reasons other than scarcity of natural resources or technical capacity remain in any case subject to the other provisions of this Directive relating to authorisation schemes.
- (31) The reasons of overriding general interest to which reference is made in certain harmonisation provisions of this Directive are those which have been recognised in the case law of the Court of Justice dealing with Articles 43 and 49 of the Treaty, notably the protection of consumers, recipients of services, workers and the urban environment.
- (32) The objective of establishing a genuine Internal Market for services requires the abolition of the restrictions on the freedom of establishment and the free movement of services which are still enshrined in the laws of certain Member States and which are incompatible with Articles 43 and 49 of the Treaty respectively. The prohibited restrictions provided for in this Directive affect the Internal Market for services in particular and should be dismantled systematically as soon as possible.
- (33) According to the case law of the Court, the freedom of establishment implies in particular the principle of equal treatment, which prohibits not only any discrimination based on nationality of a Member State but also any indirect discrimination based on other criteria capable of producing the same result. Thus, for example, access to a service activity or to the exercise thereof in a Member State either as a principal or secondary activity, may not be made subject to criteria such as the place of establishment, residence, domicile or principal provision of the service activity. Similarly, a Member State may not restrict the legal capacity or the right to bring legal proceedings of companies incorporated in accordance with the law of another Member State and on whose territory they have their primary establishment. Moreover, a Member State may not confer any advantages on providers having a particular national or local socio-economic link, nor can it restrict, because of the place of establishment of the provider, the latter's freedom to acquire, exploit or dispose of rights and goods or to access different forms of credit or accommodation in so far as those choices are useful for access to his activity or for the effective exercise thereof.

¹⁶ OJ L 178, 17.07.2000 p1.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

- (34) The prohibition of economic tests as a prerequisite for granting authorisation concerns economic tests as such, and not other requirements objectively justified by overriding reasons of general interest such as the protection of the urban environment. This prohibition does not affect the exercise of the powers of the authorities responsible for applying competition law.
- (35) In order to co-ordinate the modernisation of national rules and regulations in line with the requirements of the Internal Market, it is necessary to evaluate certain non-discriminatory national requirements which, by their very characteristics, could materially restrict or even prevent access to an activity or the exercise thereof under the freedom of establishment. Member States must ensure, during the transposition period of the Directive, that such requirements are necessary and proportionate or, where appropriate, abolish or amend them. Moreover, these requirements must in any case be compatible with Community competition law.
- (36) The restrictions to be examined include, for example, national rules which, on grounds other than those relating to professional qualifications, reserve access to activities such as gambling to particular providers. Similarly, among the requirements to be examined are "must carry" rules applicable to cable operators which, by imposing an obligation on an intermediary service provider to give access to certain services delivered by specific service providers, affect his freedom of choice, access to programmes and the choice of the recipients.
- (37) The provisions of this Directive concerning the freedom of establishment apply to the extent that the activities in question are open to competition and thus do not oblige Member States to abolish existing monopolies, notably those of lotteries, or to privatise certain sectors.
- (38) The fact that this Directive lays down a number of requirements which the Member States must abolish or evaluate during the transposition period, is without prejudice to any action taken against a Member State for failure to comply with Articles 43 or 49 of the Treaty.
- (39) In order to ensure the effective implementation of the free movement of services and that recipients and providers can benefit from and supply services throughout the Community regardless of frontiers, it is necessary to establish the principle whereby a provider must, as a general rule, only be subject to the law of the country in which he is established. That principle is essential in order to allow providers, especially SMEs, to avail themselves with full legal certainty of the opportunities offered by the Internal Market. By thus facilitating the free movement of services between Member States, this principle, combined with harmonisation and mutual assistance measures, also allows recipients to gain access to a wider choice of high quality services from other Member States. This principle is accompanied by an assistance mechanism for the recipient enabling the latter, in particular, to be informed about the law of the other Member States, and by the harmonisation of rules on the transparency of service activities.
- (40) It is also necessary to ensure that supervision of service activities is carried out at source, that is to say, by the competent authorities of the Member State in which the provider is established. The competent authorities of the country of origin are best placed to ensure the effectiveness and continuity of supervision of the provider and to provide protection for recipients not only in their own country but also for those in other Member States. This Community-wide responsibility of the Member State of origin in supervising the activities of providers regardless of the place where the service is provided is clearly set out in order to establish mutual trust between Member States in the regulation of service activities. Determination of the competence of the courts does not fall within the scope of this Directive but within that of Regulation (EC) 44/2001 of the Council of 22 December 2000 on jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of judgements in civil and commercial matters¹⁷, or other Community instruments such as Directive 96/71/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 16 December 1996 concerning the posting of workers in the framework of the provision of services¹⁸.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

- (41) As a complement to the principle of the application of the law of and supervision by the country of origin, it is necessary to set out the principle whereby Member States may not restrict services coming from another Member State.
- (42) The application of the law of the country of origin may only be set aside in the areas covered by the derogations, general or transitional, provided for in this Directive. These derogations are necessary in order to take into account the level of integration of the Internal Market or certain Community instruments relating to services which stipulate that a provider is subject to the application of a law other than that of the Member State of origin. Moreover, by way of exception, measures against a given provider may also be adopted in certain individual cases and under certain procedural and substantive conditions. In order to guarantee the legal certainty which is essential in order to encourage SMEs to provide their service in other Member States, these derogations must be limited to what is strictly necessary and their use is subject to strict substantive and procedural conditions. In particular, these derogations may only be applied for reasons related to the safety of services, exercise of a health profession or protection of minors and to the extent that national provisions in this field have not been harmonised. In addition, any restriction of such freedom will not be able to benefit from an exemption unless it is consistent with fundamental rights which, according to the settled case law of the Court, form an integral part of the general principles of law enshrined in the Community legal order.
- (43) In cases where a provider moves temporarily to a Member State other than the Member State of origin, it is necessary to provide for mutual assistance between those two States which allows the former to carry out checks, inspections and enquiries at the request of the Member State of origin or to carry out such checks on its own initiative if these are merely factual checks. Moreover, in the case of posted workers, the Member State of posting may take action against the provider established in another Member State to ensure compliance with the employment and working conditions applicable under Directive 96/71/EC.
- (44) The country of origin principle provided for in this Directive does not, by derogation, apply to services which are the subject of a general prohibition in the Member State to which a provider has moved, if such a prohibition is objectively justified by reasons of public policy, public security or public health. This derogation is limited to general prohibitions and does not, for example, cover national schemes which, without prohibiting an activity in a general manner, reserve the exercise of that activity to one or several specific operators, or which prohibit the exercise of an activity without prior authorisation. As soon as a Member State permits an activity, while reserving it to certain operators, this activity is not subject to a general prohibition and is therefore not as such considered as contrary to public policy, public security or public health. Consequently, it would not be justified for such an activity to be excluded from the scope of the Directive.

¹⁷ OJ L 12, 16.01.2001, p1.

¹⁸ OJ L 18, 21.01.1997, p1.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

- (45) The country of origin principle laid down in this Directive does not apply, by way of derogation, to specific requirements of the Member State to which a provider has moved which are inherent in the particular characteristics of the place where the service is provided, and which must be fulfilled in order to maintain public policy, public safety, public health or the protection of the environment. Such a derogation would, for example, apply to authorisations to occupy or use the public highway, requirements relating to the organisation of public events or requirements relating to the safety of building sites.
- (46) The exclusion from the country of origin principle of matters relating to the registration of vehicles leased in a Member State other than that in which they are used results from the case law of the Court, which has accepted that a Member State may subject vehicles used on its territory to such an obligation, under conditions which are proportionate. Such an exclusion does not cover occasional or temporary rental.
- (47) A number of Directives concerning contracts concluded by consumers have already been adopted at Community level. However, these Directives apply the minimal harmonisation approach. In order to limit as far as possible divergences between consumer protection rules across the Union that fragment the Internal Market to the detriment of consumers and enterprises, the Commission announced in its Communication on consumer policy strategy 2002-2006¹⁹, that one of the Commission's key priorities would consist of proposing full harmonisation. Furthermore, it stressed in its Action Plan on "A more coherent European contract law"²⁰ the necessity of greater convergence of European consumer law which would imply, in particular, a review of the existing law of contracts concluded with consumers in order to remedy residual inconsistencies, to fill gaps and to simplify legislation.
- (48) It is appropriate to apply the country of origin principle to the field of contracts concluded by consumers for the supply of services only to the extent that Community directives provide for full harmonisation because in such cases the levels of consumer protection are equivalent. The derogation from the country of origin principle relating to the non-contractual liability of a provider in the case of an accident involving a person and occurring as a consequence of the service provider's activities in the Member State into which he has moved temporarily concerns physical or material damage suffered by a person in the accident.
- (49) It is necessary to allow Member States the possibility, exceptionally and on a case-by-case basis, of taking measures which derogate from the country of origin principle in respect of a provider established in another Member State, for certain reasons such as the safety of services. Such measures could only be taken in the absence of harmonisation at Community level. Moreover, this possibility does not permit restrictive measures to be taken in areas in which other Directives prohibit all derogations from the free movement of services, such as Directive 1999/93/EC or Directive 98/84/EC of the European Parliament and the Council of 20 November 1998 on the legal protection of services based on, or consisting of, conditional access²¹, nor for the extension or limitation of the possibilities for derogations laid down in other Directives such as Council Directive 89/552/EEC of 3 October 1989 on the coordination of certain provisions laid down by law, regulation or administrative action in Member States concerning the pursuit of television broadcasting activities²² or Directive 2000/31/EC.

¹⁹ Communication from the Commission to the European Parliament, the Council, the Economic and Social Committee and the Committee of the Regions: "Consumer Policy Strategy 2002-2006", OJ C 137, 08/06/2002 p2-23.

²⁰ Communication from the Commission to the European Parliament and the Council: "A more coherent European contract law - An action plan" OJ C 63, 15/03/2003 p1-44.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

- (50) Restrictions on the free movement of services contrary to this Directive may arise not only from measures applied to providers, but also from the many barriers to the use of services by recipients, especially consumers. This Directive cites as examples certain types of restriction applied to a recipient wishing to use a service performed by a provider established in another Member State.
- (51) In accordance with the Treaty rules on the free movement of services, as interpreted by the case law of the Court, discrimination on the basis of the nationality or national or local residence of the recipient are forbidden. This could, for example, take the form of an obligation imposed only on nationals of another Member State to supply original documents, certified copies, a certificate of nationality or official translations of documents in order to benefit from a service or from more advantageous terms or prices. However, the ban on discriminatory requirements does not mean that such advantages, especially as regards tariffs, may not be limited to certain recipients, if these are based on legitimate, objective criteria, for example a direct link to taxes paid by these recipients.
- (52) Furthermore, the effective achievement of an internal area without frontiers requires that EU citizens are neither prevented from benefiting from a service which is technically accessible on the market, nor experience different conditions and tariffs, due to their nationality or their place of residence. This principle of non-discrimination within the Internal Market means that access by a recipient, and especially by a consumer, to a service on offer to the public may not be denied or made more difficult because of a criterion, included in general conditions made available to the public, relating to the nationality or place of residence of the recipient. This does not affect the possibility of providing in these general conditions for variable tariffs and conditions to the provision of a service which are directly justified for objective reasons, for example the effective additional costs resulting from the distance or technical characteristics of the provision, the different market conditions or the extra risks linked to rules differing from those of the Member State of origin.
- (53) The persistence of such discrimination with respect to the recipients of services highlights, for the EU citizen, the absence of a real Internal Market in services and, in a more general sense, affects the integration of the peoples of Europe.

²¹ OJ L 320 of 28.11.1998, p54.

²² OJ L 298 of 17.10.1989, p23. Directive modified by Directive 97/36/EC of the European Parliament and the Council (OJ L 202 of 30.1.1997, p60).

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

- (54) This Directive aims, in accordance with the principles established by the case law of the Court on the free provision of services, and without endangering the financial balance of Member States' social security systems, to bring greater legal certainty to patients, who benefit as recipients from the free movement of services, and to health professionals and managers of social security systems. The provisions of this Directive relate to reimbursement for health care and not to reimbursement for medical products.
- (55) The provisions of Council Regulation 1408/71 of 14 June 1971 on the application of social security schemes to employed persons, self-employed persons and their families moving within the Community²³ apply fully to employed and self-employed workers who provide or take part in the supply of a service, and notably those provisions regarding affiliation to a system of social security.
- (56) Article 22 of Regulation 1408/71, which concerns authorisation for the assumption of costs of health care provided in another Member State, contributes, as emphasised in the case law of the Court, to facilitating the free movement of patients and the provision of cross-border medical services. This provision aims to guarantee, to insured persons possessing an authorisation, access to health care in another Member State under the conditions of assumption of costs as favourable as those applying to insured persons in that Member State. It thus confers on insured persons rights they would not otherwise have and therefore facilitates the free movement of services. Equally, this provision does not seek to regulate, and nor in any way to prevent, the reimbursement, at the rates applicable in the Member State of affiliation, the costs of health care provided in another Member State, even in the absence of a prior authorisation.
- (57) Taking into account the evolution of the case law of the Court in the field of free movement of services, the requirement of prior authorisation for reimbursement by the social security system of a Member State for non-hospital care provided in another Member State must be abolished, and Member States must amend their legislation accordingly. Insofar as the reimbursement of this care remains within the limits of the cover guaranteed by the sickness insurance scheme of the Member State of affiliation, this abolition is not likely to seriously disrupt the financial equilibrium of social security systems. In accordance with the case law of the Court, the conditions under which Member States grant non-hospital care on their own territory remain applicable in the case of care provided in a Member State other than that of affiliation insofar as these are compatible with Community law. Equally, in accordance with the case law of the Court, authorisation schemes for the assumption of costs of care in another Member State must respect the provisions of this Directive concerning the conditions of granting, and the procedures relating to, authorisation.
- (58) In accordance with the case law of the Court in the field of the free movement of services, a system of prior authorisation for the reimbursement of hospital care provided in another Member State appears to be justified from the point of view of the need to plan the number of hospital infrastructures, their geographical distribution, the mode of their organisation, the equipment with which they are provided and even the nature of the medical services which they are able to offer. Such planning aims to guarantee sufficient permanent accessibility on the territory of each Member State to a balanced range of quality hospital care, and is part of the desire to ensure efficient cost management and, to the extent possible, to avoid wastage of financial, technical or human resources. In accordance with the case law of the Court, the concept of hospital care must be objectively defined and a system of prior authorisation must be proportionate to the general interest objective being pursued.

²³ As amended and updated by Council Regulation 118/97 of 2 December 1996, OJ L 28 of 30 January 1997.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

- (59) Article 22 of Council Regulation (EEC) 1408/71 lays down the circumstances in which the competent national institution is prevented from refusing an authorisation sought on the basis of this Article. Authorisation may not be refused where this care, when it is provided on their territory, is covered by their social security system, and where treatment which is identical or equally effective cannot be obtained in time on their territory under the conditions laid down by their social security system. In accordance with the case law of the Court, the condition relating to acceptable delay must be considered together with all the circumstances of each case, taking due account not only of the medical condition of the patient at the time when authorisation is requested, but equally the history and probable evolution of his illness.
- (60) This Directive provides that the assumption of costs, by the social security systems of the Member States, of healthcare provided in another Member State shall not be lower than that provided for by their own social security system for healthcare provided on their territory. In accordance with the case law of the Court in the field of the free movement of services, in the absence of authorisation, the reimbursement of non-hospital care in accordance with the scales of the country of affiliation would not have a significant effect on the financing of its social security system. In cases where authorisation has been granted, in the framework of Article 22 of Regulation 1408/71, the assumption of costs is made according to the rates applicable in the Member State where the health care is provided. However, if the level of coverage is lower than that to which the patient would have been entitled if he had received the same care in the Member State where he was affiliated, then the latter must assume the remaining costs up to the level which would have applied in that case.
- (61) As regards posting workers in the context of the provision of services in a Member State other than the Member State of origin, this Directive aims to clarify the division of roles and tasks between the Member State of origin and the Member State of posting, in order to facilitate the free movement of services. It does not aim to address issues of labour law as such. This division of tasks and the specifying of the forms of cooperation between the Member State of origin and the Member State of posting allow for the free movement of services, especially by abolishing certain disproportionate administrative procedures, while also improving the monitoring of compliance with employment and working conditions in accordance with Directive 96/71/EC.
- (62) The Member State of posting shall conduct, on its territory, all checks, inspections and investigations necessary to ensure compliance with employment and working conditions within the meaning of Directive 96/71/EC and take measures, in accordance with Community law, in relation to providers who do not so comply. In order to avoid discriminatory or disproportionate administrative formalities, which would be a disincentive to SMEs in particular, this Directive forbids the Member State of posting from subjecting postings to compliance with requirements such as an obligation to request authorisation from the authorities. The obligation to make a declaration to the authorities of the Member State of posting is equally prohibited. However, such an obligation may be maintained until 31 December 2008 in the field of building work as set out in the annex of Directive 96/71/EC. In this respect, the improvement of administrative co-operation between Member States in order to facilitate supervision is the subject of work by a group of Member State experts on the application of that Directive. Furthermore, as regards employment and working conditions other than those set out in Directive 96/71/EC, the Member State of posting may not, in accordance with the principle of free movement of services laid down in this Directive, take restrictive measures against a provider established in another Member State.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

- (63) The free movement of services includes the right for a service provider to post workers even if they are not EU citizens, but third country nationals legally present and lawfully employed in the Member State of origin.
- (64) The Member State of origin is under an obligation to ensure that the posted worker who is a third country national fulfils the conditions for residence and lawful employment laid down in its legislation, including with regard to social security. Equally, under the principle of freedom of movement laid down by this Directive, the host Member State may not impose on the worker or the provider any preventative controls, especially as regards entry or residence permits, except where appropriate in the cases referred to in this Directive, or work permits, nor any obligations such as having an employment contract of indefinite duration or having had previous employment in the Member State of origin of the provider.
- (65) Following the adoption of Council Regulation (EC) 859/2003 of 14 May 2003 extending the provisions of Regulation (EEC) 1408/71 and Regulation (EEC) 574/72 to nationals of third countries who are not already covered by those provisions solely on the ground of their nationality²⁴, third country nationals are covered by a system of cooperation on the application of social security schemes to employed persons and their families moving within the Community, established by Regulation (EEC). 1408/71, which provides for the application of the rules of the country under whose social security scheme the worker is insured.
- (66) One of the means by which the provider may make the information which he is obliged to supply easily accessible to the recipient is to supply his electronic address, including that of his website. Furthermore, the obligation to present certain information in the provider's information documents presenting his services in detail does not apply to commercial communications of a general nature, such as advertising, but instead to documents giving a detailed description of the services proposed, including documents on a website.
- (67) The requirement for any operator providing services involving a particular health, safety or financial risk for the recipient to have appropriate professional indemnity insurance or equivalent or comparable guarantee implies in particular that service providers must have adequate insurance coverage for services provided in one or more Member States other than the Member State of origin.
- (68) The total prohibitions of commercial communications by the regulated professions do not concern bans on the content of a commercial communication but bans which, in a general way and for a given profession, forbid one or more forms of commercial communication: for example all advertising in one or more given media. As regards the content and methods of commercial communication, it is necessary to encourage professionals to draw up, in accordance with Community law, codes of conduct at Community level.

²⁴ OJ L 124 of 20.5.2003, p1.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

- (69) In order to increase transparency and promote assessments based on comparable criteria with regard to the quality of the services offered and supplied to recipients, it is important that information on the meaning of quality labels and other distinctive marks relating to these services is easily accessible. This obligation of transparency is particularly important in areas such as tourism, especially the hotel business, in which the use of a system of classification is widespread. Moreover, it would be useful to examine the extent to which European standardisation could facilitate compatibility and quality of services. European standards are drawn up by European standards setting bodies CEN, CENELEC and ETSI. Where appropriate, the Commission, in accordance with the procedures laid down in Directive 98/34/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 22 June 1998²⁵ laying down a procedure for the provision of information in the field of technical standards and regulations and of rules on Information Society services will issue a mandate for the drawing up of specific European standards.
- (70) The development of a network of Member State consumer protection authorities, which is the subject of the proposal for the Regulation on consumer protection co-operation, complements the co-operation provided for in this Directive. The application of consumer protection legislation in cross-border cases, in particular with regard to new marketing and selling practices, as well as the need to remove certain specific obstacles to co-operation in this field, necessitates a higher degree of co-operation between Member States. In particular, it is necessary in this area to ensure that Member States require the cessation of illegal practices by operators on their territory who target consumers in another Member State.
- (71) The Member States and the Commission shall encourage interested parties to draw up codes of conduct at Community level aimed in particular at promoting the quality of services and taking into account the specific nature of each profession. These codes of conduct shall comply with Community law, especially competition law.
- (72) This Directive is without prejudice to any legislative or other Community initiatives in the field of consumer protection.
- (73) The absence of a reaction from the Commission within a period of six months in the context of the mutual evaluation procedure provided for by this Directive, has no effect on the compatibility with Community law of national requirements which are included in reports by Member States.
- (74) In accordance with Article 2 of Council Decision 1999/468/EC of 28 June 1999 laying down the procedures for the exercise of implementing powers conferred on the Commission²⁶, the measures needed for the implementation of this Directive must be adopted in accordance with the advisory procedure provided for in Article 3 of that Decision.

²⁵ OJ L 204 of 21.7.1998, p.37. Directive amended by Directive 98/48/EC (OJ L 217 of 5.8.1998).

²⁶ OJ L 184 of 17.7.1999, p23.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION
HAVE ADOPTED THIS DIRECTIVE:

Chapter I

General provisions

Article 1

Objective

This Directive establishes general provisions facilitating the exercise of the freedom of establishment for service providers and the free movement of services.

Article 2

Scope

1. This Directive shall apply to services supplied by providers established in a Member State.
2. This Directive shall not apply to the following activities:
 - a) financial services as defined at Article 2b) of Directive 2002/65/EC
 - b) electronic communications services and networks and associated facilities and services with respect to issues covered by Directives 2002/19/EC²⁷, 2002/20/EC²⁸, 2002/21/EC²⁹, 2002/22/EC³⁰ and 2002/58/EC³¹.
 - c) transport services to the extent that they are regulated by other Community instruments based on Article 71 or Article 80(2) of the Treaty.
3. This Directive does not apply to the field of taxation, with the exception of Articles 14 and 16 to the extent that the restrictions identified by those provisions are not covered by a Community instrument on fiscal harmonisation.

²⁷ OJ L 108, 24.4.2002, p7.

²⁸ OJ L 108, 24.4.2002, p21.

²⁹ OJ L 108, 24.4.2002, p33.

³⁰ OJ L 108, 24.4.2002, p51.

³¹ OJ L 201, 31.7.2002, p37.

Article 3

Relationship with other provisions of Community law

Member States shall apply the provisions of this Directive in compliance with the rules of the Treaty on the right of establishment and free movement of services.

Application of this Directive does not prevent the application of other Community provisions in so far as they apply to services.

Article 4

Definitions

For the purpose of this Directive:

1. "service" means any self-employed economic activity, as provided for by Article 50 of the Treaty, consisting of the provision of a service against consideration;
2. "provider" means any natural person who is a national of a Member State, or any legal person, who offers or provides a service;
3. "recipient" means any natural or legal person who, for professional or non-professional purposes, uses, or wishes to use, a service;
4. "Member State of origin" means the Member State on whose territory the provider concerned is established;
5. "establishment" means the actual pursuit of an economic activity as provided for by Article 43 of the Treaty, which is supplied through a provider's fixed establishment for an indefinite period;
6. "authorisation scheme" means any procedure which obliges a provider or recipient to take steps in order to obtain from a competent authority a formal or an implicit decision concerning access to a service activity or to the exercise thereof;
7. "requirement" means any obligation, prohibition, condition or limit provided for in the legislative, regulatory or administrative provisions of the Member States or arising from case-law, administrative practice or rules of professional bodies and the collective rules of associations or other professional organisations adopted as a result of the exercise of their legal autonomy;
8. "competent authority" means any body or authority in a Member State which has a supervisory or regulatory role in relation to service activities, including, in particular, administrative authorities, professional bodies, and those associations or other professional organisations which, in the exercise of their legal autonomy, regulate in a collective manner access to service activities or the exercise thereof;
9. "coordinated field" means any requirement applicable to access to or the exercise of service activities;

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

10. "regulated profession" means a professional activity or a group of professional activities, the access to which, the practice of which, or one of its modes of pursuit, is subject, directly or indirectly, to legislative, regulatory or administrative provisions concerning possession of specific professional qualifications.
11. "Member State of posting" means the Member State on whose territory a provider posts a worker in order to provide services in that territory;
12. "lawful employment" means a worker's salaried activity performed in accordance with the national law of the Member State of origin of the provider;
13. "commercial communication" means any kind of communication designed to promote, directly or indirectly, the goods, services or image of a company, organisation, or person performing commercial, industrial or craft activity or exercising a regulated profession. The following do not in themselves constitute commercial communications:
 - a) information allowing direct access to the activity of the company, organisation or person, including in particular a domain name or an electronic-mail address,
 - b) communications relating to the goods, services or image of the company, organisation or person compiled in an independent manner, particularly when this is without financial consideration.

Chapter II

Freedom of establishment for service providers

SECTION 1

ADMINISTRATIVE SIMPLIFICATION

Article 5

Simplification of procedures

1. Member States shall simplify the procedures and formalities applicable to access to a service activity and to the exercise thereof.
2. Where Member States require a provider or recipient to supply a certificate, attestation or any other document proving that a requirement has been satisfied, they shall accept any document from another Member State which serves an equivalent purpose or from which it is clear that the requirement in question has been satisfied. They may not require that a document from another Member State be produced in its original form, as a certified copy or as a certified translation, unless this is provided for in other Community instruments or objectively justified by an overriding reason of general interest.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

3. Paragraph 2 shall not apply to the documents referred to in Article 46 of Directive/EC³² or Article 45(3) of Directive/EC³³.

Article 6

Single points of contact

Member States shall ensure that, by 31 December 2008 at the latest, a service provider can complete the following procedures and formalities at a contact point known as a "single point of contact":

- a) all procedures and formalities needed for access to his service activities, in particular, all necessary declarations, notifications or applications for authorisation from the competent authorities, including applications for inclusion in a register, a roll, a database or for registration with a professional body or association;
- b) any applications for authorisation needed to exercise his service activities.

Article 7

Right to information

1. Member States shall ensure that the following information is easily accessible to providers and recipients through the single points of contact:
- a) requirements applicable to providers established on their territory, in particular those requirements concerning the procedures and formalities to be completed in order to access and to exercise service activities;
 - b) the contact details of the competent authorities allowing the latter to be contacted directly, including the particulars of those authorities responsible for the exercise of service activities;
 - c) the means and conditions for accessing public registers and databases on providers and services;
 - d) the means of redress available in the event of dispute between the competent authorities and the provider or the recipient, between a provider and a recipient or between providers;
 - e) the contact details of the associations or organisations, other than the competent authorities, from which providers or recipients may obtain practical assistance.

³² Proposal for a Directive of the European Parliament and of the Council on the recognition of professional qualifications.

³³ Proposal for a Directive of the European Parliament and of the Council on concerning the coordination of procedures for the award of public works, supply and service contracts.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

2. Member States shall ensure that providers and recipients may benefit, at their request, from the assistance of the competent authorities, consisting of information on the way in which requirements referred to in paragraph 1 point a) are generally interpreted and applied.
3. Member States shall ensure that the information and assistance referred to in paragraphs 1 and 2 are provided in a clear and unambiguous manner, easily accessible at a distance and by electronic means and up-to-date.
4. Member States shall ensure that the single points of contact and competent authorities respond as quickly as possible to any request for information or assistance referred to in paragraphs 1 and 2 and, in the case where the request is incomplete or unfounded, inform the applicant of the same without delay.
5. Member States shall implement paragraphs 1 to 4 of this Article by 31 December 2008 at the latest.
6. Member States and the Commission shall take accompanying measures in order to encourage single points of contact to make the information provided for in paragraphs 1 and 2 available in other Community languages.

Article 8

Procedures by electronic means

1. Member States shall ensure that, by 31 December 2008 at the latest, all procedures and formalities relating to access to a service activity and to the exercise thereof may be easily completed, at a distance and by electronic means, at the relevant single point of contact and with the relevant competent authorities.
2. Paragraph 1 does not apply to the inspection of premises on which the service is provided, equipment used by the provider, or physical examination of the aptitude of the provider.
3. The Commission may, in accordance with the procedure laid down in Article 42(2), adopt measures on the procedures for implementing paragraph 1 which are aimed at facilitating the interoperability of information systems and use of procedures by electronic means between Member States.

SECTION 2

AUTHORISATIONS

Article 9

Authorisation schemes

1. Member States shall not make access to a service activity and the exercise thereof subject to an authorisation scheme unless the following conditions are satisfied:
 - a) the authorisation scheme does not discriminate against the provider in question;
 - b) the need for an authorisation scheme is objectively justifiable by an overriding reason relating to the public interest;
 - c) the objective pursued cannot be attained by means of a less restrictive measure, in particular because an a posteriori inspection would take place too late to be genuinely effective.
2. In the report referred to in Article 41, Member States shall identify their authorisation schemes and give reasons for their compatibility with paragraph 1.
3. This section shall not apply to authorisation schemes which are either imposed or permitted by other Community instruments.

Article 10

Conditions for the granting of authorisation

1. Authorisation schemes shall be based on criteria which govern the exercise by the competent authorities of their power of assessment in order that that power is not used in an arbitrary or discretionary manner.
2. The criteria referred to in paragraph 1 must be:
 - a) non-discriminatory;
 - b) objectively justifiable by an overriding reason relating to the general interest;
 - c) proportionate to that general interest objective;
 - d) precise and unambiguous;
 - e) objective;
 - f) made public in advance.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

3. The conditions for granting authorisation for a new establishment shall not duplicate equivalent requirements and controls, or ones which are essentially comparable as regards their purpose, to which the provider is already subject in another Member State or the same Member State. The contact points referred to in Article 35 and the provider shall assist the competent authority by providing any necessary information on these requirements.
4. The authorisation shall allow the provider access to the service activity, or to the exercise thereof, throughout the national territory, including by setting up agencies, subsidiaries, branches or offices, except where an authorisation for each individual establishment is objectively justifiable by an overriding reason in the general interest.
5. The authorisation shall be granted as soon as the examination of the conditions for obtaining authorisation has been carried out and it is established that the conditions for authorisation have been met.
6. Any refusal or other response from the competent authorities, including withdrawal of an authorisation, shall be fully reasoned, in particular with regard to the provisions of this Article, and shall be subject to challenge by judicial or quasi-judicial proceedings.

Article 11

Duration of authorisation

1. An authorisation granted to a provider shall not be for a limited period, except in the cases where:
 - a) the authorisation is automatically renewed,
 - b) the number of available authorisations is limited,
 - c) a limited authorisation period can be objectively justified by an overriding reason relating to the general interest.
2. Paragraph 1 does not concern the maximum period during which the provider must actually commence his activity after receiving authorisation.
3. Member States shall oblige the provider to inform the relevant single point of contact provided for in Article 6 of any change in his situation which is likely to affect the efficiency of supervision by the competent authority, including, in particular, the creation of subsidiaries whose activities fall within the scope of the authorisation system, or which results in the conditions for authorisation no longer being met, or which affects the accuracy of information available to a recipient.

Article 12

Selection between several candidates

1. Where the number of authorisations available for a given activity is limited because of the scarcity of available natural resources or technical capacities, Member States shall apply a selection procedure to potential candidates which provides full guarantees of impartiality and transparency, including, in particular, adequate publicity about the launch of the procedure.
2. In the cases referred to in paragraph 1, authorisation must be granted for an appropriate limited period and may not be subject to automatic renewal, nor confer any other advantage on the provider whose authorisation has just expired or any person having any particular links with that provider.

Article 13

Authorisation procedures

1. Authorisation procedures and formalities shall be clear, made public-in advance and such as to provide interested parties with a guarantee that their application will be dealt with objectively and impartially.
2. Authorisation procedures and formalities shall not be dissuasive and shall not unduly complicate or delay the provision of the service. They shall be easily accessible and any charges which may arise to the relevant parties from their application shall be proportionate to the cost of the authorisation procedures in question.
3. Authorisation procedures and formalities shall provide interested parties with a guarantee that their applications will be processed as quickly as possible, and in any event, within a reasonable period which is fixed and published in advance.
4. In the absence of a response within the time period set in accordance with paragraph 3, authorisation shall be deemed to have been given. Notwithstanding the latter, different arrangements may be put in place in respect of certain specific activities where this is objectively justified by overriding reasons relating to the general interest.
5. All applications for authorisation shall be acknowledged as quickly as possible. The acknowledgement must specify:
 - a) the period for response referred to in paragraph 3;
 - b) the available means of redress;
 - c) a statement that in the absence of a response within the period stipulated , the authorisation shall be deemed to have been given.
6. In the case of an incomplete application or where an application is rejected on the grounds that it fails to comply with the required procedures or formalities, the applicant or other party having an interest in the matter must be informed as quickly as possible of the need to supply any additional documentation.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

SECTION 3

REQUIREMENTS THAT ARE PROHIBITED OR SUBJECT TO EVALUATION

Article 14

Prohibited requirements

Member States shall not subject access to or the exercise of a service activity on their territory to compliance with any of the following requirements:

1. discriminatory requirements based directly or indirectly on nationality or, with regard to companies, the place of its registered office, including in particular:
 - a) nationality requirements for the provider, his staff, persons holding the share capital or members of his managing or supervisory organs;
 - b) a requirement that the provider, his staff, persons holding the share capital or members of its management or supervisory organs be resident within the territory.
2. a prohibition on having an establishment in more than one Member State or being entered on the registers or enrolled with professional bodies or associations of more than one Member State;
3. restrictions on the freedom of a provider to choose between a principal or a secondary establishment, in particular an obligation on the provider to have its principal establishment on their territory, or restrictions on the freedom to choose between establishment in the form of an agency, branch or subsidiary;
4. a condition of reciprocity with the Member State in which the provider already has an establishment, with the exception of those conditions of reciprocity provided for in Community instruments concerning energy;
5. a case-by-case application of an economic test making the granting of authorisation subject to proof of the existence of an economic need or market demand, an assessment of the potential or current economic effects of the activity or an assessment of the suitability of the activity with the economic planning objectives set by the competent authority;
6. the direct or indirect involvement of competing operators, including within consultative bodies, in the granting of authorisations or in the adoption of other decisions of the competent authorities, with the exception of professional bodies and associations or other organisations acting as the competent authority;
7. an obligation to provide or participate in a financial guarantee or to take out insurance from a service-provider or body established on their territory;

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

8. an obligation to have been entered, for a given period, in the registers held on their territory or to have exercised the activity for a given period on their territory.

Article 15

Requirements to be evaluated

1. Member States shall examine whether their legal system contains requirements set out in paragraph 2 and shall ensure that any such requirements are compatible with the conditions set out in paragraph 3. Member States shall adapt their legislative, regulatory or administrative provisions so as to make them compatible with those conditions.
2. Member States shall examine whether their legal system makes access to a service activity or the exercise of it subject to compliance with the following non-discriminatory requirements:
 - a) quantitative or territorial restrictions, in particular in the form of limits fixed on the basis of population or on the basis of a minimum geographical distance between service-providers;
 - b) requirements which impose an obligation on a provider to take a specific legal form, in particular to be a legal person, to be a company with individual ownership, to be a non-profit making organisation or company owned exclusively by natural persons;
 - c) requirements which relate to the shareholding of a company, in particular an obligation to hold a minimum amount of capital for certain service activities or to have a specific professional qualification in order to hold capital in or to manage certain companies;
 - d) requirements, other than those concerning professional qualifications or provided for in other Community instruments, which reserve access to the service activity in question to particular providers by virtue of the specific nature of the activity;
 - e) a ban on having more than one establishment on the same national territory;
 - f) requirements which stipulate a minimum number of employees;
 - g) fixed minimum and/or maximum tariffs with which the provider must comply;
 - h) prohibitions and requirements with regard to selling below cost and sales;
 - i) requirements stipulating that an intermediary provider must give access to certain specific services provided by other service-providers;
 - j) an obligation on the provider to supply other specific services jointly with his service.
3. Member States shall verify that the requirements addressed in paragraph 2 satisfy the following three conditions:

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

- a) non-discrimination: requirements must be neither directly nor indirectly discriminatory according to nationality or, with regard to companies, according to the place of their registered office;
 - b) necessity: requirements must be objectively justifiable by an overriding reason relating to the general interest;
 - c) proportionality:
 - the requirements must be suitable for securing the attainment of the objective pursued, and
 - they must not go beyond what is necessary to attain it and the same result could not be achieved with other, less restrictive measures.
4. In the mutual evaluation report provided for in Article 41, Member States shall specify:
- a) the requirements that they intend to maintain and the reasons why they consider that those requirements comply with the conditions set out in paragraph 3, and
 - b) the requirements which have been abolished or made less stringent.
5. From [date of entry into force] of this Directive, Member States shall not introduce any new requirement of the sort identified in paragraph 2, unless that requirement satisfies the conditions set out in paragraph 3 and the need for it arises from new circumstances.
6. Member States shall notify to the Commission any new provision contained in a draft law, regulation or administrative act which contains requirements of the sort identified at paragraph 5 together with the reasons for introducing such requirements. The Commission shall communicate the provisions concerned to the other Member States. Such notification shall not prevent the adoption by Member States of the provisions in question.

Within a period of 3 months from the date of notification, the Commission shall examine the compatibility of any new requirements with Community law and, as the case may be, shall adopt a decision requesting the Member State in question to refrain from adopting them or to abolish them.

Chapter III

Free movement of services

SECTION 1

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN PRINCIPLE AND DEROGATIONS

Article 16

Country of origin principle

1. Member States shall ensure that providers are subject only to the national provisions of their Member State of origin which fall within the co-ordinated field.

The following constitute provisions within the meaning of paragraph 1: national provisions relating to access to and the exercise of a service activity, in particular those requirements governing the behaviour of the provider, the quality or content of the service, advertising, contracts and the provider's liability.

2. The Member State of origin shall be responsible for supervising the provider and the services provided by him, including where services are provided in another Member State.
3. Member States may not, for reasons falling within the coordinated field, restrict the freedom to provide services supplied by a provider established in another Member State, in particular, by imposing the following requirements:
 - a) an obligation on the provider to have an establishment on their territory;
 - b) an obligation on the provider to make a declaration or notification to, or to obtain an authorisation from, their competent authorities, including entry on a register or registration with a professional body or association on their territory;
 - c) an obligation on the provider to have an address or representative on their territory or to elect a domicile at the address of a person authorised on that territory;
 - d) a ban on the provider setting up a certain infrastructure on their territory, including an office or chambers, which the provider needs to supply the services in question;
 - e) an obligation on the provider to comply with requirements relating to the exercise of a service activity applicable on their territory;
 - f) the application of specific contractual arrangements between the provider and the recipient which prevent or restrict service provision by the self-employed;

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

- g) an obligation on the provider to possess an identity document issued by its competent authorities specific to the exercise of a service activity;
- h) requirements which affect the use of equipment which is an integral part of the service provided;
- i) restrictions on the freedom to provide the services identified in Articles 20, 23(1) first indent and 25(1).

Article 17

General derogations

Article 16 shall not apply to:

1. postal services within the meaning of Article 2, point 1) of Directive 97/67/EC of the European Parliament and the Council of 15 December 1997 on common rules for the development of the internal market of Community postal services and the improvement of quality of services³⁴;
2. electricity distribution services within the meaning of Article 2, point 5) of Directive 2003/54/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 26 June 2003 concerning common rules for the internal market in electricity and repealing Directive 96/92/EC³⁵;
3. gas distribution services within the meaning of Article 2, point 5) of Directive 2003/55/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 26 June 2003 concerning common rules for the internal market in natural gas and repealing Directive 98/30/EC³⁶;
4. water distribution services;
5. matters covered by Directive 96/71/EC;
6. matters covered by Directive 95/46/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 24 October 1995 on the protection of individuals with regard to the processing of personal data and on the free movement of such data³⁷;
7. matters covered by Council Directive 77/249/EEC of 22 March 1977 which aims to facilitate the effective exercise by lawyers of freedom to provide services³⁸;
8. the of Article [...] of Directive .../.../EC of the European Parliament and the Council on the recognition of professional qualifications;
9. the provisions of Regulation (EEC) No 1408/71 determining applicable law;

³⁴ OJ L 15 of 30.01.98, p14. Directive amended by Directive 2002/39 EC of the European Parliament and Council (OJ L 176 of 5.07.02, p21).

³⁵ OJ L 176 of 15.07.2003, p.37.

³⁶ OJ L 176 of 15.07.2003, p.57.

³⁷ OJ L 281 of 28.11.1995, p.1.

³⁸ OJ L 78 of 26.3.1997, p.17.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

10. the provisions of Directive ..././EC of the European Parliament and the Council on the right of citizens of the Union and their family members to move and reside freely within the territory of the Member States , amending Regulation (EEC) 1612/68 and repealing Directives 64/221/EEC, 68/360/EEC, 72/194/EEC, 73/148/EEC, 75/34/EEC, 75/35/EEC, 90/364/EEC, 90/365/EEC and 93/96/EEC, that provide for the administrative formalities that beneficiaries must undertake before the competent authorities of the host Member States;
11. in the case of the posting of third country nationals, the requirement for a short stay visa imposed by the Member State of posting, subject to the conditions set out in Article 25(2) of this Directive;
12. the authorisation regime provided for in Articles 3 and 4 of Regulation (EEC) 259/93 of 1 February 1993 on the supervision and control of shipments of waste within, into and out of the European Community³⁹;
13. copyright, neighbouring rights, rights covered by Directive 87/54/EEC⁴⁰ and by Directive 96/9/EC⁴¹ as well as industrial property rights;
14. acts requiring by law the involvement of a notary;
15. statutory audit;
16. services which are subject, in the Member State to which the provider moves temporarily in order to provide his service, to a total prohibition which is justified for reasons of public policy, public security or public health;
17. specific requirements of the Member State into which the service provider supplies his service, that are directly linked to the particular characteristics of the place where the service is provided and with which compliance is indispensable for reasons of public policy or public security or for the protection of public health or the environment;
18. the authorisation system applicable to the reimbursement of hospital care;
19. the registration of vehicles leased in another Member State;
20. the freedom of parties to choose the law applicable to their contract;
21. contracts for the provision of services concluded by consumers to the extent that the provisions governing them are not completely harmonised at Community level;
22. the formal validity of contracts creating or transferring rights in real estate, where contracts are subject, according to the law of the Member State in which the property is located, to imperative formal requirements;
23. the non-contractual liability of a provider in the case of an accident involving a person and occurring as a consequence of the service provider's activities in the Member State into which he has moved temporarily;

³⁹ OJ L 30 of 6.2.1993, p.1.

⁴⁰ OJ L 24 of 27.1.1987, p.36.

⁴¹ OJ L 77 of 27.3.1996, p.20.

Article 18

Transitional derogations

1. Article 16 shall not apply for a transitional period to:
 - a) the way in which cash-in-transit services are exercised;
 - b) gambling activities which involve wagering a stake with monetary value in games of chance, including lotteries and betting transactions;
 - c) access to the activity of judicial recovery of debts.
2. The derogations referred to in paragraph 1a) and c) shall not apply once the harmonisation instruments referred to in Article 40(1) have come into force or in any case after 1 January 2010.
3. The derogation referred to in paragraph 1b) shall not apply once the harmonisation instrument referred to in Article 40(1) b) has come into force.

Article 19

Case-by-case derogations

1. By way of derogation from Article 16 and in exceptional circumstances only, a Member State may, in respect of a provider established in another Member State, take measures that concern:
 - a) the safety of services, including aspects related to public health, or
 - b) the exercise of a health profession, or
 - c) the protection of public policy, notably aspects related to the protection of minors.
2. The measures provided for in paragraph 1 may only be taken in accordance with the mutual assistance procedure laid down in Article 37 and if the following conditions are all fulfilled :
 - a) the national provisions according to which the measure is taken have not been subject to Community harmonisation in the fields referred to in paragraph 1;
 - b) the measures must provide for a higher level of protection of the recipient than those that would be taken by the Member State of origin under its national provisions;
 - c) the Member State of origin has not taken any measures or has taken measures which are insufficient compared to those referred to in Article 37(2);
 - d) the measures must be proportionate.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

3. Paragraphs 1 and 2 are without prejudice to provisions which guarantee the freedom to provide services or allow derogations from those provisions as laid down in Community instruments.

SECTION 2

RIGHTS OF RECIPIENTS OF SERVICES

Article 20

Prohibited restrictions

1. Member States may not impose on a recipient requirements which restrict the use of a service supplied by a provider established in another Member State, in particular the following requirements:
 - a) an obligation to obtain authorisation from or to make a declaration to their competent authorities;
 - b) limits on the ability to claim tax deductions or on the grant of financial assistance on the grounds that the provider is established in another Member State or on the basis of the place at which the service is provided;
 - c) requirements which subject the recipient to discriminatory or disproportionate taxes on equipment necessary to receive a service at a distance from another Member State.

Article 21

Non-discrimination

1. Member States shall ensure that the recipient is not subjected to discriminatory requirements based on his nationality or place of residence.
2. Member States shall ensure that the general conditions for the provision of a service supplied to the public at large by a provider do not contain discriminatory provisions relating to the nationality or place of residence of the recipient, without that removing the possibility of allowing differences in those conditions directly justified by objective criteria.

Article 22

Assistance for recipients

1. Member States shall ensure that recipients can obtain, in their Member State of residence, the following information:

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

- a) information on the requirements applicable in other Member States relating to the access to and exercise of service activities, in particular those relating to consumer protection;
 - b) information on the means of redress available in case of a dispute between a provider and a recipient;
 - c) the contact details of associations or organisations, including Euroguichets and the contact points of the European extra-judicial network (EEJ-net) from which providers or recipients may obtain practical assistance.
2. Member States may allocate the responsibility referred to in paragraph 1 to single points of contact or to any other body, such as Euroguichets, the contact points of the European extra-judicial network (EEJ-net), consumer associations or Euro Info Centres. By the date laid down in Article 45 at the latest, Member States shall supply the names and contact details of the designated bodies to the Commission. The latter will transmit them to all Member States.
 3. In order to be able to supply the information referred to in paragraph 1, the relevant body approached by the recipient shall contact the relevant body for the Member State concerned. The latter shall supply the information requested as soon as possible. Member States shall ensure that these bodies give each other mutual assistance and put in place all possible measures for effective cooperation.
 4. The Commission shall, in accordance with the procedure laid down in Article 42(2) adopt measures to implement this Article that will specify the technical mechanisms for the exchange of information between the bodies of the differing Member States and, in particular, the interoperability of information systems.

Article 23

Assumption of health care costs

1. As regards non-hospital health care provided by another Member State,-
 - Member States shall ensure that assumption of their cost is not subject to the granting of an authorisation where the cost of this care, if it had been provided on their territory, would have been assumed by their social security system;
 - the conditions and formalities to which the grant of non-hospital care on their territory is subject by Member States, such as the requirement that a general practitioner should be consulted prior to consulting a specialist or the terms and conditions relating to the assumption of the costs of certain types of dental care, may be imposed on the patient.
2. Member States shall ensure that an authorisation for assumption of the cost of hospital care provided in another Member State by their social security system is not refused where the treatment in question is among the benefits provided for by the legislation of the Member State of affiliation and where such treatment cannot be given to the patient within a time-limit which is medically justifiable, taking account of his current state of health and the probable course of the illness.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

3. Hospital care means medical care which can only be provided within a medical infrastructure and which normally requires the accommodation of the person receiving the care within this structure. The name, the organisation and the financing of the structure is irrelevant for the qualification of the care.
4. Member States shall ensure that the level of assumption of costs of health care provided in another Member State by their social security system is not less than that provided for by their own social security system in respect of similar healthcare provided on their territory.
5. Member States shall ensure that their authorisation systems for the assumption of health care costs provided in another Member State are in conformity with the relevant provisions of Section 2 of Chapter II of this Directive concerning authorisations.

SECTION 3

POSTING OF WORKERS

Article 24

Specific provisions on the posting of workers

Where a provider posts a worker to another Member State in order to provide a service,

1. the Member State of posting shall carry out on its territory, the necessary checks, inspections and enquiries to enforce applicable employment and working conditions as laid down in Directive 96/71/EC and shall take, in accordance with Community law, measures against a service provider who fails to comply with these. However, the Member State of posting may not subject the provider or the posted worker, as regards the matters at Article 17 point 5, to the following obligations:
 - a) an obligation to obtain authorisation from, or to be registered with, its own competent authorities, or any other equivalent obligation;
 - b) an obligation to make a declaration, except for declarations which relate to an activity set out in the Annex to Directive 96/71/EC which may be maintained until 31 December 2008;
 - c) an obligation to have a representative on its territory;
 - d) an obligation to hold and keep employment documents on its territory or under the conditions applicable on its territory.
2. In the case provided for in paragraph 1, the Member State of origin shall:

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

- a) ensure that the provider takes all measures necessary to be able to communicate to its competent authorities and those of the Member State of posting, up to 2 years after the end of the posting, the following information:
- the identity of the posted worker,
 - the nature of the tasks attributed to him,
 - the details of the recipient,
 - the place of posting,
 - the start and end dates for the posting,
 - the employment and working conditions applied to the posted worker;
- b) assist the Member State of posting to ensure compliance with the employment and working conditions applicable under Directive 96/71/EC and shall, on its own initiative, supply the Member State of posting with the information referred to in the first indent where the Member State of posting is aware of specific facts which indicate potential irregularities on the part of the provider in relation to employment and working conditions.

Article 25

The posting of third country nationals

1. Subject to the derogations set out in paragraph 2, where a provider posts a worker who is a national of a third country to the territory of another Member State in order to provide a service there, the Member State of posting may not oblige the provider or the worker posted by the latter to hold an entry, exit, residence or work permit, or to satisfy other equivalent conditions.
2. Paragraph 1 does not prejudice the possibility for Member States to require a short-term visa for third country nationals who do not benefit from the mutual recognition regime applicable by virtue of Article 21 of the Convention implementing the Schengen Agreement.
 - ,
 -
3. In the circumstances provided for in paragraph 1, the Member State of origin:
 - shall ensure that a provider only posts a worker who is resident on its territory in accordance with its own national rules and who is lawfully employed on its territory;
 - shall not consider a posting in order to provide a service in another Member State to be an interruption of the residence or activity of the posted worker and nor shall not refuse to readmit the posted worker to its territory under its national rules;

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

- shall supply the Member State of posting, upon its request and in the shortest possible time, with information and guarantees regarding compliance with the provisions in the first indent and shall impose the appropriate penalties if these provisions have not been observed.

Chapter IV

Quality of services

Article 26

Information on providers and their services

1. Member States shall ensure that providers make the following information available to the recipient:
 - a) their name, the geographic address at which the service provider is established, and the details which allow him to be contacted rapidly and communicated with directly and, as the case may be, by electronic means;
 - b) where the provider is registered in a trade or other similar public register, the name of this register and the provider's registration number, or equivalent means of identification in that register;
 - c) where the activity is subject to an authorisation scheme, the particulars of the relevant competent authority or the single point of contact;
 - d) where the provider exercises an activity which is subject to VAT, the identification number referred to in Article 22(1) of the sixth Directive 77/388/EEC;
 - e) as concerns the regulated professions:
 - any professional body or similar institution with which the provider is registered,
 - the professional title and the Member State in which it has been granted.
 - f) the general conditions and clauses, if any, used by the provider;
 - g) contractual clauses determining the law applicable to the contract and/or the competent courts.
2. Member States shall ensure that the information referred to in paragraph 1, according to the provider's preference:
 - a) is supplied by the provider on his own initiative,
 - b) is easily accessible to the recipient at the place where the service is provided or the contract concluded,

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

- c) can be easily accessed by the recipient electronically by means of an address supplied by the provider,
 - d) appears in any information documents supplied by the provider to the recipient that set out a detailed description of the service he provides.
3. Member States shall ensure that, at the recipient's request, providers supply the following additional information:
 - a) the main features of the service;
 - b) the price of the service or, if an exact price cannot be given, the method for calculating the price so that the recipient can check it, or a sufficiently detailed estimate;
 - c) the status and legal form of the provider;
 - d) as regards the regulated professions, a reference to the professional rules applicable in the Member State of origin and how to access these.
4. Member States shall ensure that information which a provider must supply in accordance with this Chapter is made available or communicated in a clear and unambiguous manner, and in good time before conclusion of the contract or, where there is no written contract, before the service is provided.
5. The information requirements laid down in this Chapter are in addition to requirements already provided for in Community law and do not prevent Member States from imposing additional information requirements applicable to providers established on their territory.
6. The Commission may, in accordance with the procedure provided for in Article 42(2), specify the content of the information provided for in paragraphs 1 and 3 of this Article according to the specific nature of certain activities and specify the practical means of implementing the provisions of paragraph 2.

Article 27

Professional insurance and guarantees

1. Member States shall ensure that providers whose services present a particular risk to the health or safety of or a particular financial risk to the recipient are covered by appropriate professional indemnity insurance in view of the nature and extent of the risk, or by any other guarantee or compensatory provision which are equivalent or essentially comparable as regards their purpose.
2. Member States shall ensure that providers supply a recipient, at his request, with information on the insurance or guarantees referred to in paragraph 1, and in particular the contact details of the insurer or guarantor and the territorial coverage.
3. When a provider establishes himself on their territory, Member States may not require professional insurance or a financial guarantee from the provider where he is already covered by a guarantee which is equivalent, or essentially comparable as regards its purpose, in another Member State in which the provider is already established.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

Where equivalence is only partial, Member States may require a supplementary guarantee to cover those aspects not already covered.

4. Paragraphs 1, 2 and 3 do not affect professional insurance or guarantee arrangements provided for in other Community instruments.
5. In order to implement paragraph 1, the Commission may, in accordance with the procedure laid down in Article 42(2), establish a list of services which exhibit the characteristics referred to in paragraph 1 and establish common criteria for defining the appropriate character, according to the nature and scope of the risk, of the insurance or guarantees referred to in that paragraph.

Article 28

After-sale guarantees

1. Member States shall ensure that providers supply a recipient, at his request, with information on the existence or otherwise of an after-sale guarantee, on its content and on the essential criteria for its applicability, in particular, its period of validity and territorial cover.
2. Member States shall ensure that the information referred to in paragraph 1 appears in any information documents supplied by the providers that set out a detailed description of the service he offers.
3. Paragraphs 1 and 2 do not affect the regulation of after-sale guarantees provided for in other Community instruments.

Article 29

Commercial communications by the regulated professions

1. Member States shall remove all total prohibitions on commercial communications by the regulated professions.
2. Member States shall ensure that commercial communications by the regulated professions respect, on the basis of the specific nature of each profession, professional rules which are in conformity with Community law, relating, in particular, to the independence, dignity and integrity of the profession as well as professional secrecy.

Article 30

Multidisciplinary activities

1. Member States shall ensure that providers are not subjected to requirements which oblige them to exercise a given specific activity exclusively or which restrict the exercise jointly or in partnership of different activities.

By way of derogation, the following providers may be subjected to requirements of this kind:

- (a) the regulated professions, insofar as this is justified in order to guarantee compliance with different rules of professional ethics and conduct which apply according to the specific nature of each profession;
 - (b) providers of certification, accreditation, technical monitoring, test or trial services insofar as this is justified in order to ensure their independence and impartiality.
2. Where multidisciplinary activities are authorised, Member States shall ensure:
 - (a) that conflicts of interest and incompatibilities between certain activities are prevented;
 - (b) the independence and impartiality which certain activities require;
 - (c) that the rules of professional ethics and conduct for different activities are compatible with one another, especially regarding matters of professional secrecy.
3. Member States shall ensure that providers supply the recipient, at his request, with information on their multidisciplinary activities and partnerships and on the measures taken to avoid conflicts of interest. This information shall be included in any information document in which providers give a detailed description of their services.
4. In the report referred to in Article 41, Member States shall indicate which providers are subject to the requirements laid down in paragraph 1, the content of these requirements and the reasons for which they consider them to be justified.

Article 31

Policy on quality of services

1. Member States, in collaboration with the Commission, shall take accompanying measures to encourage providers to take voluntary action aimed at ensuring the quality of service provision, in particular by:
 - a) having their activities certified or assessed by independent bodies, or

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

- b) drawing up their own quality charter or participating in quality charters or labels drawn up by professional bodies at Community level.
2. Member States shall ensure that information on the significance of and the criteria for applying labels and other quality marks relating to services can be easily accessed by recipients and providers.
3. Member States, in collaboration with the Commission, shall take accompanying measures to encourage professional bodies as well as chambers of commerce and craft associations within Member States to cooperate at Community level in order to promote the quality of service provision, especially by making it easier to assess a provider's competence.
4. Member States in collaboration with the Commission shall take accompanying measures to encourage the development of publicly available independent assessments in relation to the quality and defects of service provision, and in particular the development at Community level of comparative trials or testing and the communication of the results of these.
5. Member States and the Commission shall encourage the development of voluntary European standards with the aim of facilitating compatibility between services supplied by providers in different Member States, information to the recipient and the quality of service provision.

Article 32

Settlement of legal disputes

1. Member States shall take general measures in order to ensure that providers supply a postal address, fax number or email address to which all recipients, including those resident in another Member State, can send a complaint or a request for information on the service provided.
2. Member States shall take general measures in order to ensure that providers respond to the complaints referred to in paragraph 1 in the shortest possible time and make best efforts to find appropriate solutions.
3. Member States shall take general measures to ensure that providers are obliged to prove compliance with the obligations to provide information laid down in this Directive and to prove that the information is accurate.
4. Where a financial guarantee is required for the execution of a judicial decision, Member States shall recognise equivalent guarantees constituted with a provider or body established in another Member State.
5. Member States shall take general measures in order to ensure that providers which are subject to a code of conduct, or are members of a trade association or professional body, which provides for recourse to a non-judicial means of dispute settlement, inform the recipient of this, and mention it in any document which presents their services in detail, specifying how to access detailed information on the characteristics of and conditions for the use of such a mechanism.

Article 33

Information on the good repute of providers

1. Member States shall, at the request of a competent authority in another Member State, supply information on criminal convictions, penalties, administrative or disciplinary measures and decisions concerning insolvency or bankruptcy involving fraud, taken by their competent authorities in respect of the provider, which are liable to bring into question either his ability to conduct his business or his professional reliability.
2. The Member State which supplies the information referred to in paragraph 1 shall at the same time specify whether a particular decision is final or whether an appeal has been lodged in respect of it, in which case the Member State in question should provide an indication of the date when the decision on appeal is expected.
3. Moreover, that Member State shall specify the national provisions under which the provider was sentenced or penalised. Implementation of paragraph 1 must comply with the rights guaranteed to persons sentenced or penalised in the Member States concerned, especially as regards the protection of personal data.

Chapter V

Supervision

Article 34

Effectiveness of supervision

1. Member States shall ensure that the powers of surveillance and supervision provided for in national law in respect of the activities concerned are also exercised in the case where a service is provided into another Member State.
2. Member States shall ensure that providers supply their competent authorities with all the information necessary for monitoring their activities.

Article 35

Mutual assistance

1. In accordance with Article 16, Member States shall give each other mutual assistance and put in place all possible measures in order to cooperate effectively with one another in order to ensure the supervision of providers and the services they provide.
2. For the purposes of paragraph 1, Member States shall designate one or more points of contact, the contact details of which shall be supplied to the other Member States and the Commission.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

3. Member States shall supply the information requested by other Member States or the Commission by electronic means and within the shortest possible period of time.

Upon becoming aware of any instance of unlawful conduct by a provider, or specific acts that are likely to cause serious prejudice in a Member State, Member States shall inform the Member State of origin, within the shortest possible period of time.

Upon becoming aware of any instance of unlawful conduct by a provider likely to provide services in other Member States, or specific acts that could cause serious prejudice to the health or safety of persons, Member States shall inform all other Member States and the Commission within the shortest possible period of time.

4. The Member State of origin shall supply information on providers established on its territory when requested to do so by another Member State and in particular confirmation that a service provider is established on its territory and exercising his activities in a lawful manner;

The Member State of origin shall undertake the checks, inspections and investigations requested by another Member State and inform the latter of the results and, as the case may be, the measures taken.

5. In the event of difficulty in meeting a request for information, the Member State in question shall rapidly inform the requesting Member State with a view to finding a solution.
6. Member States shall ensure that registers in which providers have been entered, and which may be consulted by the competent authorities on their territory, may also be consulted on the same conditions by the equivalent competent authorities of the other Member States.

Article 36

Mutual assistance in the event of the temporary movement of the provider

1. In the areas covered by Article 16, where a provider moves to another Member State to provide a service without being established there, the competent authorities of that Member State shall participate in the supervision of the provider in accordance with paragraph 2.
2. At the request of the Member State of origin, the competent authorities referred to in paragraph 1 shall carry out any checks, inspections and investigations there necessary for ensuring effective supervision by the Member State of origin. In so doing, the competent authorities shall act to the extent permitted by the powers vested in them in their Member State.

On their own initiative, these competent authorities may conduct checks, inspections and investigations on the spot if these meet the following conditions:

- a) they are aimed exclusively at establishing facts and do not give rise to any other measure against the provider, subject to the possibility of case-by-case derogations-as provided for in Article 19;

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

- b) they are not discriminatory and are not motivated by the fact that the provider is established in another Member State;
- c) they are objectively justified according to an overriding reason relating to the general interest and are proportionate to the objective pursued.

Article 37

Mutual assistance in the event of case-by-case derogations

1. Where a Member State intends to take a measure pursuant to Article 19, the procedure laid down in paragraphs 2 to 6 shall apply without prejudice to legal proceedings:
2. The Member State referred to in paragraph 1 shall ask the Member State of origin to take measures with regard to the service provider, supplying all relevant information on the service in question and the circumstances of the case;

The Member State of origin shall check, within the shortest possible period of time, whether the provider is operating legally and verify the facts underlying the request. It shall inform the requesting Member State within the shortest possible period of time of the measures taken or envisaged or, as the case may be, the reasons why it has not taken any measures.

3. Following communication by the Member State of origin as provided for in paragraph 2, second indent, the requesting Member State shall notify the Commission and the Member State of origin of its intention to take measures, stating:
 - a) the reasons why it believes the measures taken or envisaged by the Member State of origin are inadequate;
 - b) the reasons for which it believes the measures it intends to take fulfil the conditions laid down in Article 19.
4. The measures may not be taken until 15 working days after the date of notification provided for in paragraph 3.

5. Without prejudice to the possibility of the requesting Member State taking the measures in question following expiry of the period specified in paragraph 4, the Commission shall examine the compatibility of the measures notified with Community law within the shortest possible period of time.

Where the Commission concludes that the measure is incompatible with Community law, it shall adopt a decision asking the Member State concerned to refrain from taking any proposed measures or to put an end to the measures in question as a matter of urgency;

6. In the case of urgency, a Member State which intends to take a measure may derogate from paragraphs 3 and 4. In such cases, the measures shall be notified within the shortest possible period of time to the Commission and the Member State of origin, stating the reasons for which the Member State considers that there is urgency.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

Article 38

Implementing measures

In accordance with the procedure provided for in Article 42(2), the Commission may adopt implementing measures necessary for the implementation of this Chapter which specify the time period provided for in Articles 35 and 37 and the practical arrangements for the exchange of information by electronic means between the single points of contact, and in particular the interoperability provisions for information systems.

Chapter VI

Convergence programme

Article 39

Codes of conduct at Community level

1. Member States in collaboration with the Commission shall take accompanying measures to encourage the drawing up of codes of conduct at Community level, in conformity with Community law, in particular in the following areas:
 - a) the content and modalities of commercial communications relating to regulated professions, depending on the specific nature of each profession;
 - b) the rules of professional ethics and conduct of the regulated professions which aim in particular at ensuring, according to the specific nature of each profession, independence, impartiality and professional secrecy;
 - c) the conditions to which the activities of estate agents are subject.
2. Member States shall ensure that the codes of conduct referred to in paragraph 1 are accessible at a distance, by electronic means and transmitted to the Commission.
3. Member States shall ensure that providers indicate, at the recipient's request, or in any information documents which present their services in detail, any codes of conduct to which they are subject and the address at which these codes may be consulted by electronic means, specifying the language versions available.
4. Member States shall take accompanying measures to encourage professional bodies, organisations and associations to implement at national level the codes of conduct adopted at Community level.

Article 40

Additional harmonisation

1. The Commission shall assess, by [one year after adoption] at the latest, the possibility of presenting proposals for harmonisation instruments on the following issues:
 - a) the modalities of exercise of cash-in-transit services;
 - b) gambling activities which involve wagering a stake with monetary value in games of chance, including lotteries and betting transactions in the light of a report by the Commission and a wide consultation of interested parties;
 - c) access to the activity of judicial recovery of debts.
2. In order to ensure the proper functioning of the Internal Market for services, the Commission shall assess the need to take additional initiatives or to propose instruments, particularly in relation to the following:
 - a) matters which, having been the subject of case-by-case derogations, have indicated the need for harmonisation at Community level;
 - b) matters covered by Article 39 for which it has not been possible to finalise codes of conduct before the date of transposition or for which such codes are insufficient to ensure the proper functioning of the Internal Market;
 - c) matters identified from the application of the mutual evaluation procedure laid down in Article 41;
 - d) consumer protection and cross-border contracts.

Article 41

Mutual evaluation

1. By the [date of transposition] at the latest, Member States shall submit a report to the Commission, containing the information specified in the following provisions:
 - a) Article 9 (2) on authorisation systems;
 - b) Article 15 (4) on requirements to be evaluated;
 - c) Article 30 (4) on multidisciplinary activities.
2. The Commission shall forward these reports provided for in paragraph 1 to the Member States, which shall submit their observations on each of the reports within six months. Within the same period, the Commission shall consult interested parties on these reports.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

3. The Commission shall submit the reports and the Member States' observations to the Committee provided for in Article 42(1), which may make observations.
4. In the light of the observations provided for in paragraphs 2 and 3, the Commission shall, by 31 December 2008 at the latest, present a summary report, accompanied where appropriate by proposals for complementary initiatives.

Article 42

Committee

1. The Commission is assisted by a Committee, consisting of representatives of the Member States and chaired by the Commission representative.
2. Where reference is made to this paragraph, the advisory procedure laid down in Article 3 of Decision 1999/468/EC shall apply, in accordance with the provisions of Article 7(3) and Article 8 of that Decision.
3. The Committee shall adopt its rules of procedure.

Article 43

Report

Following the summary report provided for in Article 41(4), the Commission shall present every three years a report on the application of this Directive, accompanied, where appropriate, by proposals to amend it.

Article 44

Amendment of Directive 1988/27/EC (injunctions)

Point 1 of the Annex to Directive 1988/27/EC shall be supplemented as follows: "11. Directive.../EC of the European Parliament and the Council of ... on services in the internal market (OJ L xx p.)".

Chapter VII

Final provisions

Article 45

1. Member States shall bring into force the laws, regulations and administrative provisions necessary to comply with this Directive by [2 years after adoption] at the latest.

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

When Member States adopt those provisions, they shall contain a reference to this Directive or be accompanied by such a reference on the occasion of their official publication. Member States shall determine how such reference is to be made.

2. Member States shall communicate to the Commission the text of the provisions of domestic law which they adopt in the field covered by this Directive.

Article 46

Member States shall forthwith communicate to the Commission the texts of the legislative, regulatory and administrative provisions necessary to comply with this Directive as well as a table of equivalence between those provisions and this Directive.

Article 47

This Directive shall enter into force on the day following its publication in the Official Journal of the European Union.

Article 48

This Directive is addressed to the Member States.

Done at Brussels,

For the European Parliament
The President

For the Council
The President

LEGISLATIVE FINANCIAL STATEMENT

Policy area(s): Internal Market

Activit(y/ies): Internal Market for goods and services

TITLE OF ACTION: DIRECTIVE ON SERVICES IN THE INTERNAL MARKET

1. BUDGET LINE(S) + HEADING(S)

12 02 01 Implementation and development of the Internal Market

12 01 04 01 Implementation and development of the Internal Market – Expenditure on administrative management

2. OVERALL FIGURES

2.1. Total allocation for action (operational expenditure): 0.700 € million in commitment appropriations, already covered by existing allocation under Internal Market policy area in the financial programming.

2.2. Period of application:

2004 - 2010

2.3. Overall multiannual estimate of expenditure:

(a) Schedule of commitment appropriations/payment appropriations (financial intervention) (see point 6.1.1)

€million (to three decimal places)

	2004	2005	2006	2007	2008	2009 and subs. years	Total
Commitments	0.200	0.400
Payments	0.100	0.500

(b) Technical and administrative assistance and support expenditure (see point 6.1.2)

Commitments				0.100
Payments				0.100

Subtotal a+b
Commitments	0.200	0.400		0.100
Payments	0.100	0.500		0.100

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

- (c) Overall financial impact of human resources and other administrative expenditure (see points 7.2 and 7.3)

Commitments/ payments	0.869	0.869	0.869	0.869
--------------------------	-------	-------	-------	-------	--	--	--

TOTAL a+b+c
Commitments	1.069	1.269	0.869	0.969
Payments	0.969	1.369	0.869	0.969

2.4. Compatibility with financial programming and financial perspective

Proposal is compatible with existing financial programming.

2.5. Financial impact on revenue:

Proposal has no financial implications (involves technical aspects regarding implementation of a measure)

3. BUDGET CHARACTERISTICS

12 02 01 Implementation and development of the Internal Market

Type of expenditure		New	EFTA contribution	Contributions form applicant countries	Heading in financial perspective
No Comp	Diff	NO	YES	NO	No 3

12 01 04 01 Implementation and development of the Internal Market – Expenditure on administrative management

Type of expenditure		New	EFTA contribution	Contributions form applicant countries	Heading in financial perspective
No Comp	Non Diff	NO	YES	NO	No 3

4. LEGAL BASIS

Article 47 (2) and Article 55 as well as Article 71 and Article 80 (2) of the EC Treaty

5. DESCRIPTION AND GROUNDS

5.1. Need for Community intervention

5.1.1. Objectives pursued

Services are everywhere in the modern economy. In the EU, services excluding public administration account for 53.6% of GDP and 67.2% of employment and offer good prospects for further growth and more jobs. However, the freedom to provide cross-border services and the freedom of establishment across borders are hampered by a large number of barriers. Realising the potential of services in the Internal Market, and ensuring that they deliver better quality and value to European citizens and business, is a major aim of the EU's economic reform programme.

The Commission's report on the State of the Internal Market for Services (COM (2002) 441 final), included an inventory of the barriers which hinder the development of cross-border services. These barriers affect a large variety of service activities such as distribution, employment agencies, certification, laboratories, construction, real estate agencies, craftsmen, tourism and they hit SMEs, which are predominant in the services sector (89% of SMEs are involved in services), particularly hard.

The report, and the impact assessment which accompanies the Directive on services in the Internal Market, examine the effects of these barriers on the EU economy and show the potential gains to be achieved by the removal of these barriers, which fragment the Internal Market in Services.

5.1.2. Measures taken in connection with ex-ante evaluation

- (a) The ex-ante evaluation on the Commission's Internal Market Strategy for Services was conducted in-house in August 2002. The Internal Market Strategy for Services consists of two stages. The first stage was concluded by the above-mentioned report on the State of the Internal Market in Services. The second stage covers the adoption of a proposal for a Directive on Services in the Internal Market as well as non-legislative measures.
- (b) The ex-ante evaluation explained the context of the Services Strategy, its rationale and approach and summarised the work carried out during the first stage of the Services Strategy, which focussed in particular on the wide variety of sources of evidence of barriers. It also included a preliminary outline of systems and indicators to monitor the effectiveness of the second stage of the Services Strategy.

It found that the Services Strategy had so far been well managed and provided the necessary information for the implementation of the second stage of the Services Strategy. It confirmed the need for Community action in this field and demonstrated the value added and cost-effectiveness of Community intervention.

5.2. Action envisaged and budget intervention arrangements

The Directive will address Internal Market barriers a combination of three inter-linked elements: the country of origin principle, harmonisation and administrative cooperation.

- In order to facilitate cross-border establishment, there is a need for administrative simplification, a need to remove restrictions resulting from over-complex, intransparent or discriminatory authorisation procedures and a need to remove a number of other requirements which currently hamper cross-border establishment strategies of service providers.
- The barriers affecting the freedom to provide services require mainly that Member States refrain from applying their own rules and regulations to incoming services from other Member States and from supervising and controlling them. Instead they should rely on control by the authorities in the country of origin of the service provider. However, temporary derogations from the country of origin principle will be provided - for example, for secure transport of cash and debt collection. These issues need further analysis and will be subject to external studies.
- The application of the country of origin principle will necessitate an efficient system of administrative cooperation between Member States, establishing their respective responsibilities in the context of cross-border service provision. There might be a need for a co-ordinated solution in order to facilitate the exchange of information through electronic means.

The Directive will ensure a progressive approach to implementation. It will address a large number of barriers immediately while setting up a framework to resolve, within fixed time periods, the remaining barriers on the basis of mutual evaluation between Member States and further consultation with stakeholders. Therefore, the resources allocations will be extended to cover a certain period of time.

5.3. Methods of implementation

The negotiation of the Directive in the Council and in the European Parliament will be carried out by DG MARKT staff within existing resources. The transposition of the Directive will require monitoring and assistance to the Member States. This will also be carried out by the staff of DG MARKT. Furthermore, Article 41 of the Directive specifies that Commission will be assisted by a committee consisting of Member States' representatives on certain specific issues.

6. FINANCIAL IMPACT

6.1. Total financial impact on operational expenditure - (over the entire programming period)

6.1.1. Financial intervention

Commitments (in €million to three decimal places)

Breakdown	2004	2005	2006	2007	2008	2009 and subs. Years]	Total
Action 1		0.400
Action 2	0.200
etc.
TOTAL	0.200	0.400

6.1.2. Technical and administrative assistance, support expenditure and IT expenditure (commitment appropriations)

	2004	2005	2006	2007	2008	2009 and subs. Years	Total
1) Technical and administrative assistance
a) Technical assistance offices
b) Other technical and administrative assistance: - intra muros: - extra muros: of which for construction and maintenance of computerised management systems				0.100
Subtotal 1

PROVISIONAL VERSION, SUBJECT TO FURTHER LINGUISTIC REVISION

2) Support expenditure
a) Studies
b) Meetings of experts
c) Information and publications
Subtotal 2
TOTAL				0.100

6.2. Calculation of costs by measure envisaged in operational expenditure (over the entire programming period)

Commitments (in €million to three decimal places)

Breakdown	Type of outputs (projects, files)	Number of outputs (total for years 2004-2010)	Average unit cost	Total cost (total for years 2004-2010)
Action 1
- Measure 1 (analysis of secure transport of cash in view of proposing complementary harmonisation)	Study	1	0.200	0.200
- Measure 2 (analysis of debt collection in view of proposing complementary harmonisation)	Study	1	0.200	0.200
Action 2
- Measure 1 (development and monitoring of economic indicators – see 8.1 Follow-up arrangements)	Study	1	0.200	0.200
TOTAL COST			0.600	0.600

7. IMPACT ON STAFF AND ADMINISTRATIVE EXPENDITURE

Human and administrative resource requirements will be covered from within the budget allocated to the managing DG in the framework of the annual allocation procedure.

7.1. Impact on human resources

Types of post		Staff to be assigned to management of the action using existing resources		Total	Description of tasks deriving from the action
		Number of permanent posts	Number of temporary posts
Officials or temporary staff	A	6	0.5	6	Because the Directive covers a wide range of services activities specific knowledge is needed on a multitude of sectors (distribution, regulated professions, construction, certification, craftsmen etc.) as well as on specific questions such as reimbursement of health care or administrative simplification.
	B	1		1.5
	C
Other human resources		1 END		1
Total		8	0.5	8.5

7.2. Overall financial impact of human resources

Type of human resources	Amount (€)	Method of calculation *
Officials	0.756	7 * 0.108 €
Temporary staff	0.054	0.5 * 0.108 €
Other human resources (specify budget line)	0.043	1 * 0.043 €
Total	0.853

The amounts are total expenditure for twelve months.

7.3. Other administrative expenditure deriving from the action

Budget line (number and heading)	Amount €	Method of calculation
Overall allocation (Title A7)
12 01 02 11 01 – Missions
12 01 02 11 02 – Meetings, conferences
12 01 02 11 03 – Committees (consultative committee)	0.016	24 experts * 650 €
12 01 02 11 04 – Studies and consultations
Other expenditure (specify)
Information systems
Other administrative expenditure (specify)
Total	0.016

The amounts are total expenditure for twelve months.

I.	Annual total (7.2 + 7.3)	0.869 €
II.	Duration of action	4 years
III.	Total cost of action (I x II)	3.476 €*

* costs for human resources could be extended beyond the 4 years depending on the results of the negotiation and the subsequent work programme

8. FOLLOW-UP AND EVALUATION

8.1. Follow-up arrangements

The Directive would be implemented by the Member States two years after its adoption (which is envisaged by the end of 2005), i.e. by the end of 2007. Furthermore, an additional year (until the end of 2008) is foreseen to achieve the move to the necessary system of administrative co-operation (putting in place electronic procedures, implementation of single points of contact etc.). This additional time for implementation takes account of the initial administrative investments required.

The Commission services, assisted by a committee consisting of Member States' representatives, will actively monitor and assist the 25 Member States in the transposition of the Directive. The large scope and the wide range of issues addressed in the Directive require partnership between the Commission and Member States to ensure a smooth and homogenous transposition and functioning of the Directive across the Union.

The Commission services would also monitor the expected impacts of the Directive. More specifically, with the assistance of external economic consultants (contract already concluded but will require financing in 2004) economic indicators (e.g. compliance costs of service companies, Community cross-border trade/FDI in services, involvement of SMEs in cross-border trade/FDI, price differentials) will be tracked.

8.2. Arrangements and schedule for the planned evaluation

Since the real economic and social impacts will not be measurable until such time as the Directive has been fully working, it is proposed that the first ex-post evaluation will feature in the report that will be presented by the Commission by 2008 and that further evaluations will feature in the reports to be presented every three years following the first report.

9. ANTI-FRAUD MEASURES

Open tendering procedures will be used for the aforementioned study contracts and a close follow up of the resulting contracts will be carried out.